Candice.

Considerable plowing is being done.

J. S. VanDoren sold his south farm of 115 acres and lying next to the town line to Alfred Leach, of Springwater. Mr. VanDoren has also purchased of Mr. Cole the lease of the Wetmore farm.

Allen Huff, an old and much respected citizen, died on the 21st ult; he was buried from his residence on Sunday, the 25th. Rev S. M. Day preached from Rev 14—13, after which the friends assisted in interring the remains in "LakeView" cemetery at Honeoye. Mr. Huff leaves a large circle of mourning friends.

The C. L. S met at the residence of A. N. Tibbals on the evening of the 6th inst, and participated in a social and profitable entertainment, after the programme of the evening had been carried out the semi-annual election of officers was held. Pres, T. J. Allen, Vice Pres., Mrs. L. J. Hyde, Sec., Jno. Doolittle, Assistant Sec. Flora Slingerland, Treas., Geo Strong, Chorister, Emma Ingraham

Wallace.

Wallace can now boast of two new churches; the M. E. church will soon be ready for dedication.

George Sutton has his new store nearly enclosed; Dr. C. B. Stephens' new store will be ready for occupancy in a few days; L. Vedder's new hotel will soon be ready for the masons.

The people of Wallace are going to have a Christmas tree, held in the stock church, to which all are invited; come and enjoy a social evening, Christmas eve, and bring your presents to fill up the tree.

A serious and fatal accident occurred on Thanksgiving day to Steuben Oxx, who was employed as foreman on the Samuel Haskins farm near Wallace station, while he was unhitching a young and vicious team from a wagon, by some oversight he left one tug unhitched; when the horses started up they became frightened and jumped against Mr. Oxx forcing him against the fence, and the wagon pole striking him just above his boot top forcing its way through his leg, breaking and mangling it in a horrible manner. On Sunday following amputation was resorted to as the only means of saving his life; but this was of no avail, as he died very soon after. His funeral was held in the new Union church at Wallace on Tuesday, Dec 4th. He was highly respected by all who knew him as a kind, obliging neighbor, a good citizen, and an earnest Christian, having in his youth heeded the admonition, "Be ye also ready."

Middlesex.

Some barley goes from here to Canandaigua.

Our hotel is doing well and Mid dlesex grows.

Frank Lewis is grading off his lot adding to its looks and value.

Will Griswold, of Naples, was the guest of Fred Pollock over Sunday.

Adams & Stebbins are getting on those large chromos and lots of holiday goods.

The report that Magee had bought our railroad and it was to be a failure, did not receive the sanction of our people.

Our lecture course by the Free Baptist society is very entertaining, and speaks well for them; it ought to be better patronized.

Morehouse still keeps up a first class stock of teas, coffees, flour, feed, candies, oysters, etc., at his old place, and gives good satisfaction.

R. B. Tozer has opened a flour and grocery store next to Williams and Adams' hardware, Middlesex, and has things in good shape. He keeps oysters by the dish and measure, confectionery, etc., and promises good bargains.

Some of our boys visited Mr. McDonald at Pottle Center and are loud in their praise of his hotel. Everything is A No. 1, and "Ash" is sure to please all who call. They also speak highly of Durham in the store near by and such good boys deserve the patronage of the whole country.

Fires & Fountain are manufacturing brooms here in the basement of Morehouse's store, and they are doing good work. Their brooms are in use here and give the best of satisfaction; they repair boots and shoes, and cut hair and shave—a very useful shop for our village They are entitled to patronage.

Bloods.

Mrs. T. Swartz returned home on Friday of last week.

Jack Connell is moving into the house vacated by John Shardlow.

The social at J. J. Crouch's was a fine event, realizing for the trouble about $19.

Minnie Thorp, who has been visiting Mr. Owen, returned home one day last week.

D. Weld and Wheeler Clayson have moved into their new houses and are now settled.

Abram Fountain, of Minnesota, is visiting his many friends in this place. He was formerly a resident of Lent Hill.

Our merchants are making preparations for the holiday trade. A. Adams & Son are receiving some fine goods; Slattery, Olmsted & Co., Wheeler Clayson, Wm. Tew, J. C. McNair, and Dr. Woodard are also. The Dr. has placed a new counter through the center of his store and it is filled with choice goods. The show case which he has filled with Christmas and New Year cards is the finest show ever seen at Bloods, and at such prices as will enable each and every one to obtain a card.

For the past 8 weeks Mrs. Richard Dayton and Mrs. Dr. Woodard have been contesting for a silver cake basket and a gold-lined spoon holder, in the way of soliciting from every individual as many dollars as they feel disposed to contribute, the one obtaining the greater amount of money to have the cake basket, and the other to have the spoon holder. This was determined at the social recently. Mrs Dayton had secured $39 25, and Mrs Woodard $31 50, making in all $70 75; this amount was handed to the secretary of the Baptist church to be used as the church desires; this has been indeed a fine thing for the church, and it is hoped we may now feel assured that our church will soon regain its prosperity.

Bristol Center.

Quite a number sick with fever etc.

Our schools are all in progress and doing well.

Hops are being sold all the way from 10 to 22 cents per pound.

George S. Mallery, who has been visiting his parents here, has returned to Kansas.

Orestes Case has just returned home from Kansas, he having been there on a visit to his son, who lives there.

Some improvements going on around us! Egbert Child and Thos. M. Hunn have nicely painted their dwellings. Pity a number of others would not do likewise.

Farmers are complaining some about the price of barley. They have no wheat and corn to sell, consequently they think the low price of barley may leave them lacking in funds.

The travelling is excellent. The roads are dry and hard; the ground is also dry; streams, springs, and wells very low for this time of year, and have been all the fall although we have had frequent rains.

We are living too fast in every manner. The waste is too rapid, both physical and nervous (or spiritual). The consequence is that the deadened digestive mucous membrane, craves, demands, and will obtain a stimulant of some kind to try and hold up a little longer—a false and mistaken notion; for this course only makes more sure the breaking-down process! Here repentance and a change of heart is positively necessary for salvation. By change of heart we mean, stop the waste; stop every habit that wastes the system. Use only food and medicines that are simple and plain. Food the most nourishing, but of the most digestible kind, use only such medicine as help to digest and assimilate the food. Use not a drop of alcoholic liquors of any kind.

Conesus.

Joseph Jenks has the frame of his barn raised.

M. H. Wilcox wears a proud look, cause—a son.

A. T. Parkhill, of Avoca, was in town Saturday.

A. H. Wilcox expects to move his family to Elmira this week.

W. D. Baldwin, of the Times, spent Sunday with his best girl in Naples.

Rev. E. G. Hall attended district conference at Lawrenceville, Penn., last week.

Maichle & Finch have commenced the cellar wall for their store on the Winters lot.

Fred Wygant has so far recovered from his recent attack of fever as to be out part of the time.

We are pleased to learn that M. W. Harris, who has been confined to the house the past 10 days, is improving.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church will hold a Fair next Friday evening at Mrs. T. K. Harris'. All are invited.

Cearles Campbell, who came from Albany to attend the funeral of his nephew, Clarence Campbell, at Bath, Monday, was in town Tuesday.

The show windows of Wygant, Shattuck, Harris Bros., and Reynolds look as if Santa Claus was going to be good to all the coming Christmas.

At the examination held Friday of the shooting of W. T. Elliott on the D. L. & W. railroad, Dec. 4, Frank B Sator was held to answer before the Grand Jury in January. Justices Cooley and Waugh were associated in the examination.

E. P Terry has a counter in Harris' store tastefully arranged with delights for the little ones; judging from the admiring eyes that we often see watching the many beautiful things, we are sure you can get that which pleases your loved ones there.

North Cohocton.

R. J. Bush has his house newly painted.

Geo. Case is buying all the furs he can find.

Our merchants have a fine spread of holiday goods.

Rice Moulton 2d is on the sick list with bilious fever.

D. D. Clark has a brother from Creston, Ia., visiting him.

Dandelions in bloom were picked here on Thursday, the 6th.

An unsuccessful attempt to carry molasses in an apron is reported.

Mrs. E. Wetmore had pansies in bloom last week, in an out-door bed.

Our G. A. R. boys meet next Saturday night for election of officers.

Charles Johnson is improving his house with paint, and many more should follow.

Wetmore & Sons are closing out dolmans and jackets very low, to get them out of the way.

The fall term of our school closed last Friday, and the winter term began on Monday, the 10th.

Mrs. Geo. Wilson spent a part of last week at the house of her daughter, Mrs. Bills, in Wayland.

Our farmers seem over-anxious to sell their butter, and well they may be for it is sure to be lower.

Why don't the Wesleyans put a plank walk in front of their church to keep people out of the mud?

The circulating library at the post office gives a good opportunity for reading the new books at only ten cents each.

The raking of door-yards coupled with the exceedingly mild weather reminded us of spring; all we lacked was the robins.

We were pleased to see Morrison Parks on our streets again on Saturday. He is slowly regaining his eyesight and strength

The new iron bridge across the river is now complete, Commissioner Fowler having just finished the filling in for the walk.

Both of the Bush boys are home from railroading. C. A. is having a good time visiting with the boys, while Volney is busy repairing and re-furnishing his rooms.

Quite a little excitement and some wagers has been had over the weights of hogs here. Norman Hubbard thought his hog would be the heaviest, but 338 pounds told his story. W. Van Riper's weighed 303 pounds; and the "Live Yankee" hog tipped the scales at 431 1-2 pounds; and Mr. Curtis is declared the winner of the belt. Curtis' hog was a very choice one, the rough lard weighing 64 pounds, and is the best one of the place. No little sport has been had over the expected weights which turn out as reported above.

Vicinity.

The Phelps Advertiser has changed its quarters.

Supervisors met last week and adjourned to the February session.

Canandaigua rejoices over the prospect of water works by a New York company.

The Geneva Advertiser keeps up its railroad faith—to even a gaseous condition.

Five hundred gallons of molasses is said to have been the daily product of the Penn Yan mill.

ex Baldwin, of Geneva, has been convicted, sentenced to prison and fined for her abuse of an adopted girl.

A fracas at Stanley between an old gentleman and a son-in law is the last disgraceful act in that part of Ontario county.

The Dansville ians are freely signing a petition to have the D. L. & W. railroad carry the mail. It probably will be labor in vain.

B. F. Dow & Co., who used to manufacture threshers, etc., at Fowlerville, Liv. Co., N. Y., have failed at Peru, Ill., where they moved.

The tax—the first one—for the Union School district of Dansville is opposed, and an injunction has been applied for to prevent its collection.

Brooks, the Phelps astronomer, thinks the red lights that have followed the setting of the sun for a couple of weeks past, is meteoric dust, or that we are entangled in the tail of a comet. This may be so, for we are enveloped with meteoric showers now.

Cohocton's Business Places.

Dansville Street.

Having nearly finished the history of the east side of the river with the exception of Erie street and the portion about the Larrowe mill which we shall take up in future articles, we shall in this and the following 2 or 3 articles step across the Conhocton and look at the history "Canada" has been writing—

Upon the south side, east end, was erected a small building about 1840. In 1853 it was purchased by Samuel Chamberlain which he used for a grocery. It was then rented to Benjamin Henry, then by M. S. Andrus. It was purchased about 1862 by by William Abel who kept a saloon there. During the latter part of this occupancy the following is related: A train loaded with returning soldiers was going north on the Erie. During their stop at this station a few of the soldiers going over sought something to eat; but the price not suiting, they went back to the train, and accompanied by a large number, completely riddled the house of its eatables. Thus Cohocton had a taste of war depredations. This place was purchased in 1868 by Conrad Shults who removed the building across the street and built the present building, and up to the present time has kept hotel there. It is now owned by contract by C. J. Mehlenbacker who now occupies the old store part as a bottling works and obtains full possession April 1st, '84.

Next west stands the new brick block erected the past summer by C. Shults and occupied by Shults Bros. & Co., and by John F. Shultz who has rooms in the 2d story; the third story is a fine hall. This is one of the finest brick blocks in town and speaks well for the enterprise of Mr. Shults.

The next house was built in the fifties, and among its early occupants Phillip Beemer, and Robinson, the tailor. About 1858 it was purchased by J. Wigdon who occupied it until he sold it about 1861 to Mathias Long, who sold it about 1870 to Jacob Wiand who occupied it until about 1874, when it was purchased by C. Shults and has since been rented to different parties. It is now occupied by——?

About 1853 there was built on the ground now occupied by the office of Thomas Warner a small building by Samuel Chamberlain who had a grocery there. In 1855 it was sold to N. J. Wheeler who moved it to the present site—the second west from Shults' block, and the same year sold it to Daniel Claney who remodeled it and built the present house. About 1872 Mr. Claney lost a limb while at work in the lumber yard Soon after this accident he sold out and moved to Bath. It was then sold to C. Shults and up to 1881 rented to different parties whose names we have not obtained. In 1881 and since it has been occupied by Michael Welch and by Mrs. Mary Shults, mother of Conrad Shults.

The next lot is vacant.

The next lot has been purchased by William Perault who intends putting a storehouse thereon.

Next comes the D. L. & W. railroad with its tasty depot from which you can start and go anywhere upon the known world, and where you will find the obliging agent, T. E. Murphy, ever ready to assist you to a ticket, and Jacob Hart, Jr., will put your trunk on and give the engine a refreshing drink.

Letter from D. S. Partridge.

Since I commenced writing this letter I run across an article in a newspaper on "Sights in the Far West" which I attach hereto, the fellow who wrote it having had about the same experience as we had; it will give you some idea of what they have and what and how they do it in the western country.

"Since I came into Colorado I have played at snow-ball on the last day of July, I have seen ladies scrape away the snow and pick flowers from the ground under the snow, and I have seen red-ripe strawberries picked from green bushes after kicking off a foot of snow from them. This at Alpine pass.

"I have seen men on horseback and women and children walking, while I have men, afoot, its crack walkers; have seen these horsmen draw out a red flag and ride back at dare-devil gallop over the ties to flag a train.

I have seen the ticket agent at Marshal's Pass, 10,725 feet altitude, sitting by a roaring fire in his office on July 30, while outside the ladies of our excursion were gathering wild flowers and berries, thermometer 44 degrees in the shade.

I have seen the adobe houses of the Mexicans at Pueblo, wherein was more dirt and filth than ever dreamed of by an English family; wherein men, women, girls and visitors alike slept under straw on a clay floor, in a room which was alike kitchen, parlor, and bedroom. I have seen Mexican girls with castinets dancing a fandango, wearing nothing but a few sunflowers in their long, black hair, unabashed in the presence of a hundred on-lookers.

I have seen in the streets of twenty saloon towns open gambling hells, with a sign above the door, "Cards and Rum." I have seen on the streets of Denver splendid houses, the occupation of whose female inmates was only too plainly indicated by the transparency gas lamp suspended in the vestibule.

I have seen mountains of rocks thousands of feet high, with the stones arranged layer upon layer as if built by a mason, as regularly and carefully laid, and I have seen standing in the middle of the plain a flat stone, on its edge 330 feet to its top. I have seen in the Royal gorge a mountain over 2000 feet high all seeming one solid stone, without a crack or crevice—actually one big solid rock.

I have seen, and have in my sachel specimens of coal brought from the same mountain, one piece of anthracite vein proving up 80 per cent, carbon, and another of bituminous coal from a vein 8 feet thick, and from a tested field of 3,500 acres owned by one man.

I have seen a girl dashing over the plains on horseback dismount to pick a boquet for her hat, and, calling her Newfoundland dog, step on his back, and remount.

I have seen an open Bible laying on an elegantly carved oak altar at the entrance of a rum-shop and gambling den at Leadville, and above the Bible a sign painted, saying: "Please, Kind Friends, Don,t Swear." Think of such an appeal made in such a way by the keeper of a drinking den!

I have ridden in a palace-car on Rio Grande railroad, the name of which, painted on its side in gilt letters, was "The Blood of Jesus," followed by another car named "Heart of the Saviour."

I have traveled nearly two thousand miles over the territory west of the Missouri river, in a land which my mind had peopled with Indians, and have not seen a single Indian, the whole trip—not one—except two filthy squaws on the station platform at Cheyenne."

THE SUN.

NEW YORK, 1884.

About sixty million copies of THE SUN have goes out of our establishment during the past twelve months.

If you were to paste end to end all the columns of THE SUN printed and sold during a year, you would get a continuous strip of interesting information, amusement, and good advice, which would reach from Printing House square to the moon, and return nearly to the earth, and then circle from Printing House square, and then three-quarters of the way back to the moon again.

But THE SUN is written for the inhabitants of the earth, not for the people of intelligent planets, and so the globe 27 or 28 times.

If every buyer of a copy of THE SUN during the year chooses to read only one hour over it, and if his wife or his grandfather too spends one hour over the newspaper, the time consumed by the human race thirteen thousand years of steady reading, night and day.

It is only by little calculations like these that you can form any idea of circulation of the most popular of American newspapers, or of its influence on the opinions and actions of American men and women.

THE SUN is, and will continue to be, a newspaper which tells the truth without fear of consequences, which puts at the facts as nearly as it can, and which costs, which presents the news of all the world without a number of words and in the shortest possible shape, which is working with all its heart for the cause of honest government, and which therefore believes that the Republican party must go, and must go in the interest of good, honest, cheap government.

If you know THE SUN, you like it already, and you will read it with accustomed diligence and profit during what is sure to be the most interesting year in its history. If you do not yet know THE SUN, it is high time to get into the sunshine.

Terms to Mail Subscribers.

The monthly editions of THE SUN are sent by mail, postage free, at the rate of 65 cents a year; with the Sunday edition, $1.

SUNDAY—Eight pages. This edition furnishes the current news of the world, special articles of exceptional value, and a variety of reading to suit all tastes, or new books of the highest merit. $1 a year.
