ALBION AT THE 4TH STREET THEATRE
The United Artists production,
"Albion" the most thrilling 100 per cent talking picture of the underworld, is doing capacity business in New York. Directed by Roland West it is an adaptation from the stage play, "Nightclub," by John Wray, J. C. Nugent and Elaine Stearns Carrington. Chester Morris, Eleanor Griffith and Pat O'Malley are the featured players. When Douglas Fairbanks saw the preview of this film he said, "Albion thrills me to death. I think it is a masterpiece and one of the finest box office promises imaginable."

An enthralling talk-drama of the oil fields and of the fake fight racket will come to the screen of the Keith Theatre tomorrow when "The Shakedown," made by Universal with James Murray and Barbara Kent in the featured roles, will be the principal offering. The picture is complete with dialogue sequences, sound effects and an incidental musical setting via Movietone. The picture was directed by William Wyler, who will be remembered for his good direction of "Anchovy Here," seen Kelly. It was taken from a clever story written by Charles A. Logan, veteran newspaper and screen writer. The story has several unusual twists in it that make it highly entertaining.

The story deals with the romance of a charming little waitress in an oil boom town and a handsome young fighter who is one of the oil derricks. The plot revolves around a fake prize fight and the gang of racketeers who are managing it. How the heroine disengages the hero from the meshes of this ring, with the help of a lovable young man, a waif of the oil fields, makes very much dramatic with heart interest and appeal.

Douglas Fairbanks as the valiant D'Artagnan will open the story of "The Iron Mask," which comes to the stage theater on her prosperity stepping from a huge tapestry representing The Three Musketeers and the intrigue of the story of the undying love and valor of the brave guardman in whose hands rested the safety of a king-dom. This spoken prologue will vividly and dramatically present the theme of the story as well as introduce an entirely new and perhaps revolutionary method in sound film. The complete film will be presented in grand and central synchro-nizations as well as the spoken interludes in which the various im-

Miss McAvoy's latest starring vehicle at Loew's Strand, "Stolen Kisses," in which she plays the part of a young wife, who, goaded by her husband's her profligate modern playmates, sets sail for gay Paris with her delectable young husband, where and she is later's meek but amorous male secretary.

It is in Paris that the coolness between the newlyweds, instead of warming, grows further, perilsously near freezing point, especially when an alluring dancer of the Folies Bergere, who is snubbed by her former schoolmate of the bride,

HARTSDALE FIREMEN DANCE

The Hartsdale Firemen at their dance on Friday night in the newly decorated upstairs room of fire hall on Central avenue will hear music by the Country Club orchestra of White Plains. The proceeds of the dance will go toward the expenses of the fire company as distinguished members of the department, in which the financial affairs are handled by the elected trustees.

Renewed interest in company matters has been shown by the volunteers following a recent joint meeting with the trustees in which a greater independence of action for the future was accorded the company.

A resumption of fire drills was accomplished last week, opportunity to put out the fire which broke out to the rear of the Methodist Church the same evening, and general enthusiasm has risen among the fire company as distinguished members of the department, in which the financial affairs are handled by the elected trustees.
