BURGLARS KEEP OUT
UNUSUAL FATALITY
POLICE BEQUESTS
WANT NEW CHARTER

By LOUIS E. THAYER

Our Westchester communities have all got to take their hats off to Ardsley. Two burglaries were committed there the other night and it had been so long since the officials had had a local burglary reported that they went through their files to find out when the last burglary there occurred. It was then found that it had been over a year since a burglary had been committed in the village.

That is something of a record and we do not believe it can be duplicated by any other place in Westchester. Burglars, for some reason or other, do not seem to care for Ardsley and Ardsley has no reason to feel peeved because it is being thus slighted.

A little Port Chester boy died recently as the result of a most unusual injury. The little fellow, who was only six years old, fell at his home and bit his tongue. The mother was unable to stop the bleeding and sent for a physician. Upon his arrival he had the boy taken immediately to the United Hospital but the youngster bled to death in spite of all efforts.

Sometimes the injury which seems trivial proves fatal and for that reason those who cannot appreciate the seriousness of an injury should lose no time in procuring medical attention. It is always better to call the physician too soon than too late. If one finds out after he has called the physician that he could have got along without his services, so much the better. When in doubt, it is a good idea to call the doctor.

Police pension funds help make life easy for the police who reach the retirement age and extend a supporting hand to the widows and other dependents of deceased policemen but rarely do we read of a policeman remembering these funds in their wills. Policeman Frank C. Fero, of Mount Vernon, who died recently, however, made provision in his will to help this great work of the police pension funds. He left $1,000 to the Mount Vernon police pension fund and an equal amount to the Mount Vernon Police Association, Inc.

Those bequests show how the thoughts and brotherly interest of this policeman remained with his comrades of the Mount Vernon department to the very end.

Stock Market

New York, May 28 (UP)—Prices broke again on the New York Stock Exchange today after an early attempt at recovery from the recent battering.

Initial dealings saw gains ranging to more than three points in such issues as General Electric and Westinghouse and smaller gains in many other sections of the industrial and railroad list.

Call money renewed at 6 per cent, but the month-end pinch was making itself felt and funds were in smaller supply with the hint that the call rate would be advanced. This served as ammunition for the bears who began hammering the list again, after having pounded it for several billions, technical loss recently.

Auburn Auto broke badly on both the New York and Chicago markets.

The issues was down more than eight points. Montgomery Ward, U S. Steel lost an early advance, while Hudson, Postum, B & O and a long list of others lost ground.

Atchison, New York Central and Union Pacific were strong spots in

"Do the general public believe it fair to the merchants of this city to have officials of the White Plains High School purchase the 1930 graduation rings from out-of-towncon-cerns?

"Last year I went to Miss Baldwin (who is a teacher in the Commercial Department of the White Plains High School) with the proposition of submitting estimates for the 1930 graduation class rings. She assured me that I would be able to make my bid at the proper time. The proper time was May 27, 1929 at 2:15 p. m. at the High School, but I was not informed. Through some other source I received this information regarding the time and date. Therefore I was present at the time that representative from a New York concern, had an appointment with Miss Baldwin and the Junior Class. I went directly to Miss Baldwin and spoke to her about our agreement of a year ago. She was astonished at my presence and I had a short conversation with her, telling her my purpose at this time. But only received the following abrupt answer: "Cannot let you submit your estimates because we have a representative here from

TWO LOCAL FIRMS BID LOW ON ADDITION FOR COUNTY COURT HOUSE

Harry Singer and John L. Leahy Submit Lowest Estimates on Plumbing and Heating Systems —To Award Contracts Monday

Three Westchester firms proved to be lowest bidders on the three separate bids for the alteration, plumbing and heating systems for the additions to be made to the court house here this summer when the bids of twenty contractors seeking the work were opened by Clerk Fred L. Merritt of the Board of Supervisors.

The lowest of the eight bidders on the general alterations of the court house, affecting the fifth and sixth floors, and affording considerable more office space, was the Reisdorff Company of Tuckahoe, with a bid of $62,900, under the majority of the other bidders by more than $10,000.

On the second type of bids, those for the plumbing and drainage, the lowest bidder was Harry Singer of White Plains, with a figure of $1,641.

On the third type of bids, that for the installation of a heating system to care for the added office space, another White Plains bidder, John J. Leahy, was low, with $1,720.

The bids will all be referred to the next meeting of the Board of Supervisors, to be held next Monday June 3, and it is expected at that time the contracts will be awarded to the three lowest bidders mentioned. The work is to start immediately and will be finished before the end of the year. The plans are prepared by B. W. Morris, New York City, architect, who will supervise the construction.

Thirty contractors were assembled in the Supervisors Chambers this morning when the bids were opened by Mr. Merritt, assisted by County Building Superintendent Albert N. Garthwaite of Yonkers, and

Miss Bennett, England, and Cochet, France, Defeat Americans in Mixed Doubles; Second Victory in Two Years

It was the second time in two years that the American paid had lost to the France-english combination in the finals of the mixed doubles play, and as in 1928, it was the superiority of Cochet over Hunter that turned the decision.

Miss Wills played Miss Bennett on better than even terms, but was unable to cope with the masterful stroking of the French ace.

LINDBERGH AND BRIDE ON HONEYMOON

Elude Hunters of Press and Public After a Surprise Wedding at the Morrow Home

Englewood, N. J., May 28 (UP)—Col. Charles Augustus Lindbergh and his bride, Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow's daughter Anne, have "vanished."

Trace of them was lost late yesterday after they had been wed, without advance notice, in the Ambassador's stately home here. From then to afternoon today, definite word of the whereabouts of the once "Lone Eagle" was lacking.

While every means of modern locomotion were pressed into service to trace the honeymoon couple—airplanes, boats, motor cars — the Lindbergs hid, secure from the curious and the scores of newspapermen and cameramen.

At airports, persons watched. Above the waters of Long Island Sound, they roared about in planes seeking a trace of a "honeymoon yacht." At North Haven, Me., originally pictured as the possible scene of the Lindbergh wedding, watchful news men camped, on the
