BANDITS BEAT ANTI-ROB DAVID SOSNISKY; GET $125; IRON BAR USED

Victim Held Up in Waller Avenue Garage - Second Assault in a Month - Robbers Make Escape Despite Police Alarm

For the second time within a month, bandits in a late evening attacked David Sosnisky, slugged him, and robbed him of $125. The bandits escaped in an auto and have not yet been located, police said this morning.

According to the report which Sosnisky and four witnesses made to the police, he arrived at his home, 79 Waller avenue, at 8:40 p. m. last night and drove his auto into the garage in the rear of the house.

Mrs. Sosnisky immediately notified the victim's neighbors who went to all patrolmen on duty throughout the city and to police headquarters all over the county. Four suspects were picked up but were released after being unable to identify them as his assailants.

Two other men answering the description of the victim's assailants were picked up by New Rochelle police at 11 p. m. but were released after they had been questioned by Patrolmen Hunt and Redigan of the White Plains police department.

Sosnisky was taken to the White Plains Hospital where he was treated for an abrasion of the hand which was caused by the bandit. The blackjack, a crude but effective home-made article, was dropped in the grass as the bandits fled. It was brought to the station house by the police.

Sosnisky, who is the proprietor of a Central avenue lunch wagon, was paid the day's receipts, $20 in bills and $25 in silver. He was attacked about a month ago by two men as he was getting into his parked in Central avenue about 10 p. m. The bandits fled, but when he called for help and did not get any money. Two men were arrested but were released several days on Sosnisky's refusal to positively identify them.

Sosnisky was very inclined to attribute the hold-up to the "sneak burglars" who were surprised at the time by the police. The fact that a man was being questioned by the police, police say, of their thought the "sneak burglars" were in a similar manner and would, he believed, be prepared to protest indignantly if caught.

Sosnisky was not seriously injured and was released from hospital after treatment.
