ing for his office in New York City and that his wife had left home shortly after noon. He said that they had had the day off and had not returned home until about 10:30 p. m. When he returned he entered the house through the back door and did not notice that the door was open.

Captain McQuillan's investigation today revealed that Lillian Vesting, a maid employed by Mrs. Charles E. Wilson, next door to the Heaher home, had seen a man wearing a grey suit and cap in the rear of Heaher's house about 9 o'clock last night.

County authorities fear that this theft may be the forerunner of a series of gem thefts, similar to those perpetrated several years ago throughout the county and Long Island by Arthur Barry, who was caught from Auburn Prison in the prison mutiny.

"Screen" Screen News

New reports were received by the police last night when it was learned that Mrs. Barry had been seen in rear yards and about homes. A number of other houses checked to yield any more captures of screen burglars.

Mr. Kramer, St. Grandview avenue, called the police at 8:25 p. m. to report that he had seen some men around his home. Patrolmen Stevens and Van Dusen investigated but were unable to locate anyone.

At 10:30 p. m. a Mr. Campbell, 9 Grand place, reported that there were a man in the rear of No. 1445 street. Again police investigated without result.

The third call came at 4:59 a. m. today when a Mr. Tucker, 22 Harvard Court, said he saw a suspicious man hurrying toward Bryan avenue. The man had a flashlight and was dressed in a dark suit and light cap. Police were unable to find him.

tion at all. We object to this use of an extravagant method of doing business, as in the price which was paid for the piece of property the whole matter now is being adjusted by the grand jury. Until the report of the grand jury is received, this phase of the question need not be discussed in the House of Deutch Park in the name of the neglect of western New Castle.

"We do not consider that we have had adequate representation on the town board from our section of the township. We believe that representatives from our sections of the town should be present. I repeat—let no camouflaging enter your minds about this land transaction. This is not a quarrel on personal grounds; it is a fight for a principle.

"The meeting, which was largely attended, was conducted under the chairmanship of Frank Orser, chairman of the campaign committee of the Voters' League. In his opening remarks, Orser outlined to those present the purposes and objectives of the league and fighting and reviewed certain acts of the town board which had compelled the league for the property owners and taxpayers, to get into the political fight.

"Richard Von Dannenberg, President candidate for supervisor of New Castle, and other candidates on the Independent Republican-Democratic ticket supported and endorsed by the Voters' League, were introduced to the audience and received a hearty reception.

Town Finances

Von Dannenberg, in a short address, pledged himself to an efficient administration. He promised the voters that his first official action when elected would be to ascertain exactly the financial state of the Town of New Castle.

"At the moment, it is impossible to get any tangible and definite report on town finances," said Von Dannenberg. "It seems to be the practice, in town affairs, to purchase first and later to find out if the purchase was necessary and how it is to be paid for."

Otto Rosset, an active worker in the league's cause, emphasized the need of a competent business management of town affairs and urged those present to support Mr. Von Dannenberg as the leader of the ticket which was symbolical of efficient and economic administration.

Oliver Hill of Kio Park said that the people of his district were thoroughly dissatisfied with the present administration. As an example of such government, he mentioned the purchase of the road and broken bridges. Hill said the case of Kio Park had not many years ago as a residential district, but still unimproved.

"This property, unimproved and without roads as it is, nevertheless, assessed as improved suburban real estate," said Hill. "As to the road conditions in Kio Park, they are disgraceful, old dirt roads and let had weather they are almost impassable."

Chairman Frank Orser brought the meeting to a close with an appeal to all present to support the Fulbright ticket for the election of an administration which would give property owners and residents the "square deal" which the party symbol typifies.

UNDERMYER COMPLETES 2ND REPORT

Summary of Investigation in New Castle Land Charges To Be Released Monday to Press

Samuel Undermyer today said over the telephone from his New York office that he will send his report on additional Westchester land deals to Governor Roosevelt tomorrow night. He said he released the publication on Monday.

Undermyer, who conducted the original inquiry that resulted in the original inquiry that resulted in Governor Roosevelt's $100,000 investigation now said he may have said that his second report to the Governor deals with other matters in addition to the New Castle land deal. The New Castle deal involves Howard R. Washburn, chairman of the board of supervisors.

The other deals investigated at renewed hearings here, Undermyer said, were based on complaints laid with the governor after the Undermyer investigation was released. He declined to comment further on the nature of his report.

They are disgraced, old dirt roads and let had weather they are almost impassable."

tomorrow, perhaps for Monday release.

One or more of the staff named by the attorney general in the pending probe are expected to confer with Undermyer on the New Castle transaction before the grand jury is convened here next Tuesday.

The reason for advancing the State investigation ahead of the larger purchase by Westchester County of a White Plains site for a county office building at 4000 is not clear and no explanation is obtained today.

White Assistant Attorney General Thomas Penney, Jr., and Sydney A. White, White Plains, special counsel, were both in this city today, each declined to be interviewed.

It was stated today that the deal is here later today, it was said, but it was doubtful if any official statement could be obtained today. Preliminary work of organization of the office staff continuing today with Penney in charge of that detail.

A new angle entered the investigation today when the question of payment of bills incurred to date was raised. It was learned that a number of bills for office equipment and such preliminary organization have accumulated within the last few days at the County Comptroller's office for auditing before payment is asked.

At the County Comptroller's office it was stated distinctly that no such bills will be approved for payment until after the Board of Supervisors has authorized such payment, which will be made from surplus county funds.

To date no request has been made by any representative of the attorney general's office for an appropriation in any specific amount, though Penney informed the board today that such charges and it would be necessary for the board to make appropriations. This is expected to be taken up at the next meeting of the Board of Supervisors on November 4.

Revelation yesterday that the cost of the investigation may run possibly between $75,000 and $100,000, all of which must under the law be paid by the county, brought wide comment here today. There was speculation of what effect this might have upon next year's tax rate.

The section of the state law upon which the cost must be borne by the county is Article 62 of the Executive Law, making all expenses, salaries, and expenditures in connection with such investigation county charges.

SHOOT GUNS WITHIN CITY; COMPLAINTS

Opening of Hunting Season Brings Usual Quota of Reports to Police—No Arrests

The opening of the hunting season brought its usual quota of complaints of firearms discharged within the city limits, police reported today. Some of the shots struck the home of William A. Brennan, deputy commissioner of public safety in the Roseland section.

Other complaints were received from Hill avenue and North street and a half dozen policemen were sent out to look for the hunter. Lieutenant Joseph Brogan and Patrolman Edward Joyce sighted two men on the hill in that section but they disappeared before the officers could catch up with them. Mr. Brennan also saw four men with guns get into an auto and drive away.

No other damage was reported as a result of the shooting.

lected for the second time as president of the Mayor's Conference of New York State. He spoke at length about the work of the organization is doing concerning the planning laws of the State of New York.

In introducing Mr. Smyth, candidate for Judge of the Children's Court, Mrs. Goss announced that he has spent all of his life doing selfless work and that he has been selected by the welfare organizations of the county.

Mr. Smyth speaks

Mr. Smyth in his address said that he believed the Children's Court requires the full time service of the judge and that the court could continue to be a circuit court.

"I have been suggested," said Mr. Smyth, "that a clinic be established through private funds. I do not agree with that. This county is big enough and rich enough and kind-hearted enough to provide for its own children everything needed to best in the country."

"As long as we have Children's Courts we will have children coming into those courts. Some day perhaps something better will be established, but as the present Children's Court is an advance over the criminal courts."

Mr. Smyth believes that the solution lies in preventive work.

The other candidates noted for continued support for themselves and each other, and made a plan for vindication in the late criticism being made by electing them to his majority.

Mr. Miller, treasurer of the county, said that if a Democratic board of supervisors 25 years ago had not permitted New York City to buy water from New York City at the rate of $100 per million gallons, and that the county might be selling water to New York City now, and have an additional source of revenue.
