Basket Ball Game.

The most exciting basket ball game of the season was that of last Monday evening, played between the Katonah high school team and the local team. The local players were: Dr. Park, Dr. Williams, J. F. Ryan, Mr. Carver, and William Cargon. They were a strong team, but were not fast enough for the high school boys, who were only defeated by one team this season—the Mount Kisco high school team, before they had much practice. A great deal of their success is due to the plucky and excellent playing of Wallace Sarles, who is always in the thickest of the scramble and usually gets away with the ball, and who can make baskets over the heads of all the others. Herbert Smith and Gilchrist are also expert basket throwers, besides being fast and active players. Walter Jones made some fine plays and shot some good baskets. Young Peters is small, but makes up in dexterity.

The Katonah high school has a team to be proud of, one that can make a good showing, if not defeat every team in Westchester County. The local team had good players but they lacked practice, and the high school boys were on the job every minute. What they lacked in size they made up in fast playing. The game caused a great deal of comment. The large audience seemed to favor the high school boys and their remarks caused much laughter. The score was 20 to 22 in favor of the high school.

The second game, between the Athletic club and the high school, was also a fast game and was won by the high school boys by a score of 8 to 11.

Autos Upset on Course.

We are informed that the Maja car entered in the Briarcliff race by Village President John J. Brown, of White Plains, met with a serious accident at Hawthorne, in which the driver, Daniel Murphy, was badly injured last Monday.

Murphy was out for his usual morning spin and as he approached a bridge at Hawthorne at a speed of forty miles an hour his machine, in making a sharp turn to the approach of the bridge, turned a complete somersault. Murphy stuck to his steering gear and received a bad cut on the leg. The car was also badly damaged and was towed to White Plains for repairs.

As soon as Mr. Brown was notified by telephone of the accident he arranged to have his driver given every possible attention. It is thought that Murphy will be well enough to resume his pins before the race.

Joseph Seymour, driver of the Simplex automobile, which has been entered in the Briarcliff race, was leading five other cars in a spin over the course Sunday when those behind him crowded him. To escape he swerved to the right and his machine crashed into a stone wall, hurling Seymour and four companions to the roadway.

Seymour, his mechanic, Phillip Fear; R. C. Watson and Thomas Cotter were seriously bruised. They decline to say who was responsible for the accident. The machine had to be towed back to the starting point and will need liberal repairs before it can be used in the race.

Saloon Men Lose Appeal from Result of Election, Which Put Many Out of Business.

Having lost their appeal in the County Court from the result of the last election, the saloonkeepers are preparing to close on the 1st of May, as required by law. Some of them from White Plains are moving to the adjoining town of Greenburg, and several are building additions to their houses which will give them the necessary ten rooms to secure a hotel license.

Two of the leading hotels, the Elberon and the Carpenter House, are to be connected by a bridge, which will enable them to operate under one license, while in another instance a restaurant has consolidated with a hotel so that the latter can continue its license. All kinds of expedients are being used to get around the law.

It is doubtful if local option will close more than ten or fifteen out of fifty saloons and wholesale places which were in existence when the election took place last November. The wholesale dealers, who have been unable to find a loophole in the law, will close on May 1st. Several are moving out of town.

It is reported that a New York brewing firm has leased a building just across the line in the town of Greenburg and expects to do a rushing business delivering beer and ale to customers in White Plains. The operations of the law will not affect drug stores and hotels, of which there are twenty-five in White Plains

Mr. A. C. Daniels has purchased a lot north of Cronk's blacksmith shop and will put up a house facing Bedford road and his shop on Katonah avenue.

The No-Licenses Question in Katonah and Other Towns.

The foolish manner in which the retail liquor business is conducted is so patent and general that it may easily be rated as the most important single factor in bringing victory to the anti-saloon leaguers throughout the country. A typical illustration is about to be given by the liquor men of White Plains, according to reports from that place. A local option law goes into effect there on May 1st. Instead of submitting to the clear will of the citizens, however obnoxious to them the mandate may be, the liquor men are doing just what thousands of their brethren elsewhere have done to the ultimate injury of their business—they are making ready to avail themselves of every discoverable loophole in the law. It is estimated that the local option measure will not effectively close more than ten or fifteen of the fifty dramshops against which it was aimed. Only the wholesalers seem to be decisively routed.

The Anti-Gambling Sentiment.

If a doubt existed in the mind of any Republican Senator who voted against the anti-gambling bills regarding the temper of the Republicans in the upper part of the state that doubt must have been removed by the Governor's reception at Buffalo and Utica, and by the action of the various communities in meeting and roundly condemning the actions of their representatives, who opposed the bill. The up-state public is keenly aroused and its present condition of mind is not liable to relax for the Governor is going to fight as never before and he will talk to the constituents of every Senator who, in his opinion, has misrepresented public feeling in his district. Unless these senators can say something better in defence of their attitude than they have said hitherto, it is probable that they will soon find public sentiment running even more strongly against them than now. When they go home for the time between the regular and the special legislative session they will probably have an interesting personal session with their constituents.

The Governor never appeared to better advantage than in the fight he is now conducting. He does not believe in controlling votes through the use of patronage or the veto power, but he does believe that the voters have a right if they wish to exercise it to demand that their representatives shall fairly represent them. He sticks close to an impregnable position. In response to the Governor it is no argument for an objector to say that he does not believe gambling can be stopped or that he does not think the present best means of stopping it. Those considerations are beside the question. The Governor calls attention to the fact that the constitution prohibits gambling everywhere, while the law to favor the bookmakers puts a severe penalty on gambling outside of the betting ring and an unenforceable penalty for gambling within it. Such a discrimination in favor of what a large majority of the people regard as a corrupting influence, will be very hard for its supporters to defend against the Governor's keen attacks.

Just received a largestock of crockery. Come in and look it over.—French's 5 & 10 cent store.

The Great Automobile Race.

Next Friday will be the great automobile race over the Briarcliff course. This race is attracting great attention. White Plains, Pleasantville, Chappaqua and Mount Kisco are said to be filling up fast with people from all over this country and Canada.

There will be thousands of dollars damage done to the roads on this day by the immense automobile traffic. The towns to the south of Bedford have given sanction to the race by taking off the speed law on that day. They may see the folly of their action when it is too late, although the race will bring many people to that section and the towns will gain in that way.

The town board of Bedford refused to allow the speed limit to be broken in this town, saving it at least $5,000. It is estimated that it would cost even more than to repair the roads. The racers will pass over about a mile of the town road, from Hubbell's crossing, near Mount Kisco, to the Pines Bridge road, and they will be kept within speed limit there. More than this, this section of the road is now being macadamized by Frank Fowler, the contractor, and has not been accepted by the town. If Fowler refuses to put them in shape if the autos are allowed to race over them, the town would have to go to the expense of putting them in shape again.

OBITUARY.

MRS. GERTRUDE L. CHADEAYNE

Mrs. Gertrude Lawrence Chadeayne widow of the late John Chadeayne, of this place and Mount Kisco, died at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Elmer Brady, at Stamford, Conn., on Sunday, April 12, 1908, in the eighty-eighth year of her age.

Mrs. Chadeayne was a daughter of the late Norman and Hannah Lawrence and was born in Boutonville. About forty-three years ago, while teaching school in Katonah, she married John Chadeayne, who was in business here, and they resided in this village until about twenty years ago when they moved to Mount Kisco. They lived there until after the death of Mr. Chadeayne in 1899, since which time the deceased has made her home with her daughter in Stamford.

Mrs. Chadeayne was for the greater part of her life an earnest, faithful member of the Presbyterian church, first in South Salem and then in Katonah. She was one of the seven charter members of the Presbyterian church of this place, only one of whom, Dr. J. F. Chapman, now survives, and as long as she resided here was an active member in its work.

Her funeral services were held at her late home on Wednesday afternoon, her former pastor, Rev. John H. Eastman of Pottsville, Penn., officiating, assisted by the pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Stamford.

Deceased two sisters, Mrs. George Read of Yonkers, and Mrs. William Wood of Stamford, Conn., and one brother, Frank Lawrence, of New Haven, Conn., she leaves one daughter, Mrs. Elmer Brady, and one son, Stephen Chadeayne, both of Stamford
