Hughes Wins in Manhattan.

Governor Hughes carried six of the nine New York County Assembly districts, in which the test vote was taken Wednesday. This insures him, according to a rough calculation by President Parsons, of the county committee, 73 out of a total of 189 delegates from New York County in the Saratoga convention.

Mr. Parsons believes that in all districts where the so-called "better element" constitutes a large portion of the voting population Governor Hughes is strong with the voters, while in the districts with a large foreign born population the sentiment is to a degree opposed to his re-nomination.

For instance, Mr. Parsons takes the 2d Assembly District, far down on the lower East Side, which went against Hughes by a vote of 390 to 60, and assumes that in other lower East Side districts, with a somewhat similar population the sentiment is relatively the same. Similarly, he assumes that in the better residential parts of the city the sentiment is likely to be the same as in the 19th and 25th. By this process of reasoning he gives the Governor, as already stated, 73 out of 189 delegates from New York County.

Only a very small percentage of the enrolled Republican strength showed itself at the polls. Practically only a third of the enrollment strength was expressed in ballots.

Butter.—Fox River Prints, the best butter on the market.—Doyle Brothers.

Fiske to Run Democratic Campaign.

At a meeting of the Westchester Democratic executive committee held in White Plains on Thursday of last week Edwin W. Fiske, of Mount Vernon, was selected as the head of a sub-committee of the county committee to run the Democratic campaign in Westchester this fall, and ex-Mayor Michael J. Walsh was appointed treasurer. In conjunction with John J. Smoot, of Mount Pleasant, Timothy Hartnett, of Mount Kisco, James J. Fleming, of Yonkers, and William A. Sawyer, of Rye, they will make an active campaign for William J. Bryan and the Democratic state ticket.

The committee announces that immediately following the state convention it will open headquarters in the Realty Building at White Plains where it will be ready to receive contributions from all Democrats.

It was stated that it was necessary to appoint a new head for the campaign committee owing to the prolonged absence of County Chairman Frederick H. Allen in Europe.

The Democratic county convention will not be called until after the state convention.

School Opens With A Large Attendance.

The Katonah High School opened on Tuesday with the largest attendance in its history and a larger number of non-residents than ever before. The primary department has thirty-five pupils with Miss McKnight as teacher. A number of the smaller children have not started in as yet. In the second and third grade room there were forty-two scholars, with Miss Bailey as teacher. Miss Arnold in the fourth and fifth grades, has also forty-two and the sixth and seventh grades, presided over by Miss Murphy, has over thirty. There are twenty-three students in the eighth grade. Most of those are non-residents, coming here from neighboring towns to prepare for high school work. Miss Wheeler is the teacher in this room and also supervises the music throughout the school. In the high school there are thirty-two students. Many of them are non-residents. The sciences are taught by Miss Adams, the preceptress, and the other subjects by the principal, Prof. Wallace, and Miss McKinley.

We anticipate an excellent school year. A careful selection of the best teachers obtainable has been the motto of the Board of Education. This, with the new reference books, apparatus and other appliances, together with a commodious, well lighted and ventilated building, should act as a stimulant for the greatest progress and steady advancement of the pupils of our school. A good school is one of the first requisites of a thriving village, and the better the school the more enlightened and progressive will be the community.

The Lost Prince.

"The Lost Prince," a play acted by some children, will be performed on Saturday, Sept. 12th, at three o'clock, in the big barn on Mr. de Mauriac's property for the benefit of the reading room. Admission 50 cents, children 25 cents.

Patterson to be Wiped Out if New Reservoir is Built.

Plans have been prepared for a new reservoir in the Croton watershed by the chief engineer of the Aqueduct Commission, Walter H. Sears, and are now in the hands of John H. O'Brien, Commissioner of the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity, for his signature. Mr. O'Brien does not approve of the project. The Mayor will have to decide whether this new reservoir shall go through.

This reservoir, if it is built, will be similar to a great washbone, with the apex resting in the southern outskirts of Pawling, in Dutchess county, the base of the prongs in the west.

Towners, on the Haviland Hollow, and the ends near Dyckman Station on the west and Deforest Corners on the east. This dam, if constructed, will back the waters of the east branch of the Croton over fifty-four square miles of irregular basin, and impound about 20,000,000,000 gallons of water. The village of Patterson will be wiped out. Half of it has already been acquired by the city. If the project goes through the village will be rebuilt and be called West Patterson, and eleven miles of the Harlem road will also have to be rebuilt. Mr. Sears has been looking for an additional reservoir site for several years, and hit upon this section as the most available and as giving the best results. In a report to the commission Mr. Sears said:

"The cost of this reservoir has been estimated with care and, including the reconstruction of twelve miles of railroad, amounts to $4,250,000. The construction of this reservoir requires only a comparatively short low earthen dam. It could be built in two seasons and could be ready for use a year before the earliest date proposed for the introduction of water from the Catskills. Its completion would give additional security and insurance to the maintenance of the increasing demands for water supply incommensurable with the cost of its construction means the difference between continued security and a disastrous water famine, and as an indispensable precaution against such shortage I recommend the immediate construction of a reservoir at the Patterson site.

John J. Ryan, one of the aqueduct commissioners, said Wednesday that the reservoir was necessary to prevent the great waste of water due to lack of reservoir capacity and a new reservoir would be a safeguard against a famine and water can be brought from the Catskills.

Manhattan and The Bronx this year used an average of 325,000,000 gallons of water a day, and the capacity of the present Croton system is said to be little more than this. With the new dam for the Patterson reservoir, the city would be assured of at least a supply amounting to 175,000,000 gallons a day.
