ON THE TRACKLESS PRAIRIE AND A RACE FOR LIFE BY BUFFALO BILL FROM TRUE TALES OF THE PLAINS

In the fall of 1868 General Sherman and the Indian commissioners who were to make a treaty with the Arapahoes and Comanches in southwestern Kansas came to Fort Zarah, on the Arkansas river.

Our chief of scouts and guide at that time was Dick Curtis. The outfit was composed of three ambulances with saddle horses for the general and Indian commissioners.

It was about 2 o'clock in the afternoon, after leaving the fort that a young officer, one of the general's aids was riding along talking to me and asking me about when I thought we were going to get to Council Springs.

He asked "Why don't you tell the general this?" He is up there in the ambulance. I told him (the officer) that I was not guiding General Sherman; that Mr Curtis was the guide.

The general remarked "Well then Mr Curtis how far are we from the Springs?" From the distance we have traveled since leaving Zarah at 2 o'clock this morning we should be very near them.

Mr Curtis replied "General, this is a very level country as you can see. There are no landmarks and there are so many thousands of buffaloes all over the prairie that it is pretty hard to tell just where we are and how far we are from the Springs.

He asked in what direction and I answered saying they were due south from us now and we were headed dead west. Dick Curtis spoke up and said Billy when were you ever out to the Springs?

I told him I had been there on two of three different occasions with Charlie Rath the Indian trader and had killed many buffaloes all over this country. The general called for his horse-mounted it and said Young man, you come and show me the Springs. I will ride with you.

As I was, and one of their horses in particular a spotted animal, was gaining on me all the time. Nearly all the other horses were strung out behind for a distance of two miles, but still chasing after me.

The chase was kept up until I came within three miles of the end of the railroad track, where two companies of soldiers were stationed for the purpose of protecting the workmen from the Indians.

The general and the peace commissioners counseled here for three days, and in the evening of the third day an orderly came to me and told me the general wished me to report to him at his tent.

One day in the spring of 1868 I mounted Brigham and started for Smoky Hill river. After galloping about twenty miles I reached the top of a small hill overlooking the valley of that beautiful stream.

At the crack of my rifle down went his horse. I was engaged in shooting at their leader, and they sent several shots whizzing past me, but fortunately none of them hit the intended mark.

Others succeeded in making their escape. On coming up to the place where I had killed the first horse—the spotted one on my "home run" I found that my bullet had struck him in the forehead and killed him instantly.

When we got back to camp I found old Brigham grazing quietly and contentedly on the grass. He looked up at me as if to ask if we had got away with any of those fellows who had chased us.
