

ANNUAL MEETING AND DINNER OF THE MINISINK VALLEY HISTORICAL SOCIETY

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE ONE)

to the extent of a business man's vision. There must be a vision of a bright future for Port Jervis if that future is to be realized. Establish a belief in the city and then make it grow and prosper. Mr. Ross' address struck a popular chord and was well received.

Early and Later Settlers.

Mr. Cuddeback introduced Mr. Edward J. Collins, Esq., of Newburgh, who spoke on the subject "Early and Later Settlers." Mr. Collins began his address with graceful reference to his earlier days spent in this city, when he was employed on the Gazette. He said in part

"That was before the strenuous voice which seemed imperative to lead me to another sphere, and if in that field I have had some measure of success, not that degree for which I have heard myself credited and indeed I am ready to predicate that success to the durable permanent system and the efficiency of the public schools of this city, and to acknowledge an everlasting debt of gratitude to the high character of the community of my early surroundings, whose very atmosphere is charged with all that makes for good and strong and rugged citizenship."

He paid tribute to the Historical Society and its purpose. "Patriotism born of heroism and valor seems never to have been a part of this country's need," said the speaker.

"Rather do we need stimulation along lines of moral courage and in my opinion the reason for it is not too difficult to find. With the turning of the wheels of time and the steady advancement of our country, we have attracted to our shores during the last decade or two, an immigration peculiar in its nature and still more peculiar in its causes and effects."

"It was not the desire of those early settlers in this beautiful valley to acquire wealth or power. Not even the spirit of adventure sent those pioneers forth. They were resolute men of principle, who sought religious independence as well as the establishment of a new land. The immigrants of the 40's and 50's from England, Germany and Ireland who settled here have left their works as monuments to their industry and courage. They, too, like the pioneers were men of purpose, sturdy oak. They did not come to return, but to abide. Their abode was the land, the soil, the soil of the free and the home of the brave was quiet, complete and absolute. "Lust for gold, materialism, socialism and a new brand of religious independence seems to have become a scheme of the latter day order of things. Yes, independence to leave the path of right, rather than to follow the Cross; a materialism without the high ideals that belong to pure patriotism and that are necessary to the building up of a progressive people. These tendencies have left their footprints upon the sands and throughout the world is observable the spirit of unrest and the demand for drastic changes which pervades us."

"Since the safety of a republic is dependent upon the virtue of its citizens, shades of Washington rise before our vision and there comes to our ears his pathetic, prophetic farewell."

"Of all the dispositions and habits which lead to political prosperity, religion and morality are indispensable supports. In vain would that man claim the tribute of patriotism who should labor to subvert the great pillars of human happiness—And let us with caution indulge the supposition that morality can be maintained without religion. Whatever may be conceded to the influence of refined education upon minds of peculiar structure, reason and experience both forbid us to expect that national morality can prevail in exclusion of religious principle."

It is encouraging, however, to note the awakening of the public conscience for as widespread as is the existence of evil, wider yet is the organized efforts to check it; the determination to protect public interest against the attacks of greed and avarice, the enforcement of the laws calculated to protect the poor against the abuses of the rich and the elevation to power and influence of men who can be safely entrusted with the rights of others are at least coming to their own, and gradually the strongholds will be reduced, for the genius of the American people when aroused will find a solution consistent with truth and justice.

"The immortal Lincoln pointed the way when he said:

"Let reverence for the laws be breathed by every American mother to the lisping babe that prattles at her lap; let it be taught in schools, in seminaries, and in colleges; let it be written in primers, spelling books and in almanacs; let it be preached from the pulpit, proclaimed in legislative halls and enforced in courts of justice. And in short, let it become the political religion of the nation; and let the old and the young, the rich and the poor, the grave and the gay of all sexes and tongues and colors and conditions sacrifice unceasingly upon its altars."

Needless to say Mr. Collins' address met with the heartiest applause of approbation.

A Paper by Mr. Bennett.

The speechmaking was concluded with a historical paper by Mr. James Bennett, who, in his wide acquaintance and varied experience as a local newspaper man has brought down through the years a store of interesting knowledge of old-time conditions. Parts of the paper are here given:

Mr. President and Gentlemen: Two years ago at the annual dinner of the Minisink Valley Historical Society, I read a paper on the customs of the old families of the Delaware and Neversink Valleys, and I have again been honored with an invitation by the committee on speakers to prepare another paper continuing along the same lines.

This paper, as did the former ones, treats of conditions beginning in the early part of the 18th century. The Battle of Minisink, Brant's invasion, the first settlers and their serious struggles and the many other subjects for speakers at the annual picnics and annual dinners on many occasions and these reminiscences are of the lives and conditions of their immediate descendants, and many of the guests at this table are descendants of these worthy people.

In the former paper no mention was made of the amusements of those days, the games, which were so feared by the descendants of the settlers who occupied the attention of the young men while not engaged in agricultural pursuits, and the women when at leisure from household duties which included weaving cloth, spinning, tailoring, dressmaking and other industries in the homes; now things of the past.

Amusements.

"All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," and the history of those amusements is a convincing proof that the people were not "dull boys."

In the early part of the century, the young men had "general trainings," which would last for a week, and while not engaged in the drilling and manual of arms, there would be wrestling matches, foot races, and other sports, a fight occasionally. Every neighborhood had its champion wrestler and strong man. These matches were held in the yearly meetings called General Trainings, brought together the young men from Westbrooke, Oakland Valley, and the Minisink Valley, to Flatbrookville and on the hill on opposite sides of the Delaware 30 miles below Port Jervis, and men from the Westbrooke, the Westbrooke, Wantage township, Sussex Co., and every section brought along "a best man, to carry off the honors."

In the winter seasons they had singing schools in the school houses. Benjamin Van Inwagen, grandfather of Treasurer of the Society, Mr. C. F. Van Inwagen, was one of the leading instructors for years. Mr. Van Inwagen was a member of the Consistory of the Mahakamak Church, and for years was the musical director or conductor. He stood upon front of the congregation and with the aid of a tuning fork pitched the tunes.

How could the horse tell?

At a party at the home of Jacob Cuddeback about 75 years ago, the present residence of Mr. Edward Mondon, corner of East Main street and the German street in this city, an amusing incident occurred, which caused the question among the girls of the valley, "How could the horse tell?"

Huldah Cuddeback, daughter of Heinrich or Henry Cuddeback, had been visiting at the hotel and home of her brother Jacob and following the party, it was her intention to return to her home in the Neversink Valley. This information may have been given to Cornelius Westfall of David Westfall, of what is now Matamoras.

At a party at the conclusion of the party the jolly young Cornelius, who was a general favorite with the girls, courteously asked a girl if he might be allowed to take her home on his horse. He assisted the consented girl to a sitting behind the saddle, when immediately the horse began kicking and he hurriedly assisted her to alight.

Other girls met with the same treatment, and finally some one suggested that he invite Huldah, who, bashfully assented, and to and behold, the horse seemed pleased with the presence and was as mild and pleasant as a May morning.

Cornelius mounted the horse, and the pair, with Huldah holding fast to the young Cornelius, rode away, followed by the laughter of the remaining guests.

Cornelius and Huldah were married the following year. Huldah was the aunt of Henry G. Cuddeback, of the Neversink Drive, W. H. Cuddeback, of this city, and an aunt by marriage, of the late Rev. Dr. J. J. Eltinge of Mrs. Elizabeth Canfield, Matamoras.

The sons and daughters of the second generation of descendants of the Revolutionary War were growing to manhood and womanhood at the time of the coming of Rev. Cornelius C. Eltinge in 1816, and during his pastorate, which continued until his death in 1843, there was an average of ten weddings yearly in the old families of the Delaware and Neversink Valleys.

Witches and Witchcraft. The general belief in witches began to wane in the latter part of the 18th century, but, occasionally, there were instances where unquestioned proof was required to remove a lifelong belief.

These women with the supposed preternatural power to bring "bad luck" to an individual or family, to "sour" milk, to keep the butter from "coming" during a churning, to ride through the air on broomsticks, and if a broomstick was not convenient, to temporarily transform a human being into beast of burden, were dreaded visitors at the farm houses, and when the good housewife saw a witch woman coming, she immediately began the use of the witch charms for the protection of her household and herself.

Rev. Cornelius C. Eltinge. In the year of 1816 Rev. Cornelius C. Eltinge, of Kingston, N. Y., who had just graduated at Queen's Theological Seminary, Rutgers' at New Brunswick, N. J., preached as a candidate to fill the vacant pulpit of the Mahakamak Church, then situated on about the present site of the new Tri-State school building.

The young dominie created a favorable impression and was duly chosen as pastor by consistory and congregation. The contract called for $300 yearly salary, and a place of residence.

Then began a life work that was most important to the people of the Delaware and Neversink valley. A man whose subsequent life showed that he had unselfishly devoted his life to the work of the Master had come among them. His wife was formerly Ann Maria Bevier, of New Feltz, N. Y., and their home was what is now known as the Eltinge Stone House at Tri-State, just above the Erie Railroad across the Neversink river from the old Mahakamak cemetery on East Main street.

He baptized the children, buried the dead, visited the sick, made pastoral visits and in addition preached on alternate Sabbaths at the Mahakamak and the Brick House Churches. He held prayer meetings in the schoolhouses and many of the homes from the Brick House to Pennington. He was revered and loved and rarely anything was done in opposition to his expressed opinion as to the moral effect. He certainly assisted much in the moulding of the youth of that day, and his perfect life and precepts were restraining influences upon the few lives in their elders inherited from the demoralization of the war not so many years previous.

His life and work accomplished are a precious and cherished legacy by his descendants among whom are his grandsons, our President, C. B. Cuddeback, Vice-President, Dr. W. L. Cuddeback, and great-grandson, Secretary Samuel M. Cuddeback, and great-grandson, Dr. Edgar G. Cuddeback, a member also of the Minisink Valley Historical Society.

At the conclusion of the speaking the following were voted into the society: Everett E. Aumick, A. H. F. Seeger, Edward J. Collins, John Curran, John A. Kadel and H. J. Pipitt.

The matter of the midsummer picnic will be left with the executive committee of the society.

Morning Meeting of The Historical Society.

There was a good attendance of officers and members at the annual meeting of the Minisink Valley Historical Society, which was held in the Free Library Hall at 11.30 o'clock on Thursday morning, President C. E. Cuddeback in the chair.

The report of the library committee was read by the Recording Secretary in which it was stated that $50.34 had been expended during the year for books and that many valuable gifts of books and records had been received from the following-named donors:

"My Dreams," poems by John Matther Dolph, presented by his daughters Mrs. George S. Gumaer and Miss Ada I. Dolph.

Keys of the old court house and jail at Milford Pa., in use from the time of their erection in 1814 until the new court house was built. Presented by W. H. Nearpass in behalf of the late Warren K. Ridgway, who was sheriff of Pike county for several years. The one was the key to the court room, and the other to the jail.

Copy of letter from General Washington to General Daniel Brodhead, dated March, 1779, who was one of the ancestors of the late Capt. Edgar Brodhead, of Port Jervis. Presented by the latter's daughter, Mrs. Eliza Brodhead Campbell, of Middletown, N. Y. The original letter is in possession of Capt. Brodhead's brother, Henry Brodhead, of Nice, France.

GOOD BOWLING MATCH.

Brokers Defeat Bankers in Two Well Played Games.

At the Elks' Club on Saturday night two excellent games of bowling were played between "Bankers" and "Brokers"—the latter being the victors. The players and figures were as follows:

BANKERS.		BROKERS.
E. H. Whitney	171	E. W. Mayer	200
F. H. Mapes	196	F. H. Mitchell	150
E. D. Seay	146	J. J. Hawkins, Jr.	150
J. J. Duley	141	T. C. Worden	127
W. L. Brown	148
	709		757

At a party at the home of Jacob Cuddeback about 75 years ago, the present residence of Mr. Edward Mondon, corner of East Main street and the German street in this city, an amusing incident occurred, which caused the question among the girls of the valley, "How could the horse tell?"

Huldah Cuddeback, daughter of Heinrich or Henry Cuddeback, had been visiting at the hotel and home of her brother Jacob and following the party, it was her intention to return to her home in the Neversink Valley. This information may have been given to Cornelius Westfall of David Westfall, of what is now Matamoras.

At a party at the conclusion of the party the jolly young Cornelius, who was a general favorite with the girls, courteously asked a girl if he might be allowed to take her home on his horse. He assisted the consented girl to a sitting behind the saddle, when immediately the horse began kicking and he hurriedly assisted her to alight.

Other girls met with the same treatment, and finally some one suggested that he invite Huldah, who, bashfully assented, and to and behold, the horse seemed pleased with the presence and was as mild and pleasant as a May morning.

Cornelius mounted the horse, and the pair, with Huldah holding fast to the young Cornelius, rode away, followed by the laughter of the remaining guests.

Cornelius and Huldah were married the following year. Huldah was the aunt of Henry G. Cuddeback, of the Neversink Drive, W. H. Cuddeback, of this city, and an aunt by marriage, of the late Rev. Dr. J. J. Eltinge of Mrs. Elizabeth Canfield, Matamoras.

The sons and daughters of the second generation of descendants of the Revolutionary War were growing to manhood and womanhood at the time of the coming of Rev. Cornelius C. Eltinge in 1816, and during his pastorate, which continued until his death in 1843, there was an average of ten weddings yearly in the old families of the Delaware and Neversink Valleys.

Witches and Witchcraft. The general belief in witches began to wane in the latter part of the 18th century, but, occasionally, there were instances where unquestioned proof was required to remove a lifelong belief.

These women with the supposed preternatural power to bring "bad luck" to an individual or family, to "sour" milk, to keep the butter from "coming" during a churning, to ride through the air on broomsticks, and if a broomstick was not convenient, to temporarily transform a human being into beast of burden, were dreaded visitors at the farm houses, and when the good housewife saw a witch woman coming, she immediately began the use of the witch charms for the protection of her household and herself.

Rev. Cornelius C. Eltinge. In the year of 1816 Rev. Cornelius C. Eltinge, of Kingston, N. Y., who had just graduated at Queen's Theological Seminary, Rutgers' at New Brunswick, N. J., preached as a candidate to fill the vacant pulpit of the Mahakamak Church, then situated on about the present site of the new Tri-State school building.

The young dominie created a favorable impression and was duly chosen as pastor by consistory and congregation. The contract called for $300 yearly salary, and a place of residence.

Then began a life work that was most important to the people of the Delaware and Neversink valley. A man whose subsequent life showed that he had unselfishly devoted his life to the work of the Master had come among them. His wife was formerly Ann Maria Bevier, of New Feltz, N. Y., and their home was what is now known as the Eltinge Stone House at Tri-State, just above the Erie Railroad across the Neversink river from the old Mahakamak cemetery on East Main street.

He baptized the children, buried the dead, visited the sick, made pastoral visits and in addition preached on alternate Sabbaths at the Mahakamak and the Brick House Churches. He held prayer meetings in the schoolhouses and many of the homes from the Brick House to Pennington. He was revered and loved and rarely anything was done in opposition to his expressed opinion as to the moral effect. He certainly assisted much in the moulding of the youth of that day, and his perfect life and precepts were restraining influences upon the few lives in their elders inherited from the demoralization of the war not so many years previous.

His life and work accomplished are a precious and cherished legacy by his descendants among whom are his grandsons, our President, C. B. Cuddeback, Vice-President, Dr. W. L. Cuddeback, and great-grandson, Secretary Samuel M. Cuddeback, and great-grandson, Dr. Edgar G. Cuddeback, a member also of the Minisink Valley Historical Society.

George Clinton, 1778, John Jay, 1798, Morgan Lewis, 1807, Daniel Tompkins, 1809-1815, John Taylor, 1817, Joseph Yates, 1824.

The list of documents and records of the Rev. Cornelius C. Eltinge will be published later in The Union.

There are 2,087 books, pamphlets and curios recorded. In 1911, eight volumes were purchased, 43 bound volumes received as gifts, 4 newspapers and 3 periodicals were received.

On motion of Mr. Van Inwagen, the report was received and filed, and the Recording Secretary directed to express the thanks of the society to the donors for their contributions.

The report of Treasurer C. F. Van Inwagen, giving receipts during the year as $374.41, disbursements of $260.81, and balance on hand of $113.50, was read, received and filed.

Several bills for books, printing and postage were ordered paid.

Messrs. G. F. Van Inwagen, Alfred Marvin and Dr. W. L. Cuddeback were appointed a committee to nominate officers for the ensuing year. After a short conference the committee recommended that the present officers be re-elected. The report was adopted and the following-named officers were re-elected by unanimous vote:

President—C. E. Cuddeback. Vice-President—Theodore Writer, P. L. Gumaer, W. H. Nearpass, W. L. Cuddeback.

Recording Secretary—S. M. Cuddeback. Corresponding Secretary—Alfred Marvin.

Treasurer—Charles F. Van Inwagen. Executive Committee—J. J. Mills, H. B. Swartwout, George M. Gordon, James Bennett.

The President called attention of the society that suggestions have been made for the holding of a meeting and basket picnic on Monday, July 22, 1912, at the Minisink battleground in which local patriotic and historical societies from Warwick and Goshen will join.

After some discussion, on motion of Dr. J. J. Mills, the matter was referred to the executive committee with power to act, and to bring before the banqueters at the afternoon meeting for their consideration.

The meeting then adjourned to the annual dinner to be held at the Hotel Mitchell.

At the Elks' Club on Saturday night two excellent games of bowling were played between "Bankers" and "Brokers"—the latter being the victors. The players and figures were as follows:

BANKERS.		BROKERS.
E. H. Whitney	171	E. W. Mayer	200
F. H. Mapes	196	F. H. Mitchell	150
E. D. Seay	146	J. J. Hawkins, Jr.	150
J. J. Duley	141	T. C. Worden	127
W. L. Brown	148
	709		757

Big Improvements at High Point.

Mr. James F. Devine, foreman for the E. M. Shanley Sons' Company, contractors, of Newark, N. J., was in town over Saturday and Sunday making arrangements for the carrying out of a contract for the building of private roads and concrete bridges on the Dryden and Kuser estates at High Point, Sussex county, N. J. Work will be commenced early in March as soon as conditions are favorable. About 10 or 12 miles of roads will be built and other work done which will occupy fully two years.

Public drinking and subsequent imprisonment for intoxication are rapidly increasing in the cities of New York, according to the annual report of the State Commission of Prisons. The report for the proposed hospitals and colonies for the care of inebriates says in the year there were 29,774 men committed for disorderly conduct while intoxicated, an increase of more than 2,000, and 7,949 women were sentenced for public intoxication.

The Trials of a Traveler.

"I am a traveling salesman," writes E. E. Young, E. Berkehire, Vt., "and was often troubled with constipation and indigestion till I began to use Dr. King's New Life Pills, which I have found an excellent remedy." For all stomach, liver or kidney troubles they are unequalled. Only 25 cents at All Druggists.

Drunkenness Increasing.

Public drinking and subsequent imprisonment for intoxication are rapidly increasing in the cities of New York, according to the annual report of the State Commission of Prisons. The report for the proposed hospitals and colonies for the care of inebriates says in the year there were 29,774 men committed for disorderly conduct while intoxicated, an increase of more than 2,000, and 7,949 women were sentenced for public intoxication.

James Easton—Signs of the Times, a magazine devoted to the old school Baptist principles.

A. W. Smith—Skull of Indian Chief Cahoonzie, from collection of J. M. Allerton.

Theodore Fletcher—Ulster County Gazette, 1800.

Richard Knight—Letter, 1795, and contract, 1791, of Samuel Preston, clippings dated 1826.

Theodore Writer—Account book and ledger of Thomas Newman, of Milford, dated 1811.

William Cole—Collection of Indian arrowheads and flints.

C. E. and W. L. Cuddeback—Documents and records of Rev. C. E. Eltinge, 1816-1849.

W. L. Cuddeback—Genealogy of the Cuddeback family.

Silas Cuddeback—Signatures of Governors of New York to Commissions issued to Abraham Cuddeback, of Deerpark, the signatures being of victims to stomach, liver and kidney troubles just like other people, with like results in loss of appetite, and drowsy, listless run-down feeling. But there's no need to feel like that as T. D. Peebles, Henry, Tenn., proved. "Six bottles of Electric Bitters" he writes, "did more to give me new strength and good appetite than all other stomach remedies I used." So they help everybody. It's folly to suffer when this great remedy will help you from the first dose. Try it. Only 50 cents at All Druggists.

Flying Men Fall

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

The Great Kidney Remedy Convinces The Most Skeptical.

I want to tell you what Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root did for me. I was completely broken down. My kidneys hurt me so that when I was down, I could not get up unless I took hold of something to pull myself up with.

I tried different kinds of kidney pills, but they did me no good. Some one told me to try Swamp-Root. I had no faith in it but to please my wife, I purchased one bottle and took it. I saw it was beginning to help me and kept on taking it until I had taken six bottles and it straightened me out all right.

Swamp-Root is the only medicine that did me any good. I thought I would write this letter and tell everyone that is afflicted as I was, to take Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. The six bottles I took cost me five dollars, and did me five hundred dollars' worth of good.

Yours very truly,
GEORGE H. HUBER,
Atlanta, Ill.

State of Illinois }
Logan County } ss.

I, M. M. Hoose, a Notary Public in and for the said county of Logan, in the State of Illinois, do hereby certify that George H. Huber, known to me to be the same person whose name is subscribed to the foregoing instrument, appeared before me this day in person and acknowledged that he signed, sealed and delivered the said instrument as his free and voluntary act.

Witness under my hand and Notarial Seal this 12th day of July, A. D. 1909.
M. M. HOOSE,
Notary Public.

Letter to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Prove What Swamp-Root Will Do For You.

Send to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. It will convince anyone. You will also receive a booklet of valuable information, telling all about the kidneys and bladder. When writing, be sure and mention the Tri-State Urin. Regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size for sale at all drug stores.

NOTICE OF PRIMARY ELECTIONS

Notice is hereby given, pursuant to the provisions of Chapter 89 of the Laws of the State of New York, known as the Primary Election Law, to all persons entitled to vote at primary elections in Orange County that a primary election will be held in and for the Town of Deerpark on the 26th day of March, 1912, and that the polls of such election will open at 3 o'clock p. m. and close at 9 o'clock p. m. on that day, for the purpose of electing delegates and members to the following conventions and committees of the Democratic, Republican, Prohibition and Socialist Parties: State Conventions, Judiciary, Congressional, Senatorial, Assembly and County Committees.

Polling places have been designated as follows:
First district at C. V. Fredmore's Storage Room, Cuddebackville.
Second district at C. J. Van Inwagen's Hall, Eugeneout.
Third district at Sparrowbush Village Hall, Sparrowbush.

NOTICE OF PRIMARY ELECTIONS

Notice is hereby given, pursuant to the provisions of Chapter 891 of the Laws of the State of New York, known as the Primary Election Law, to all persons entitled to vote at primary elections in Orange County that a primary election will be held in and for the Town of Greenville on the 26th day of March, 1912, and that the polls of such election will open at 3 o'clock p. m. and close at 9 o'clock p. m. on that day, for the purpose of electing delegates and members to the following conventions and committees of the Democratic, Republican, Prohibition and Socialist Parties: State Conventions, Judiciary, Congressional, Senatorial, Assembly and County Committees.

Polling places have been designated as follows:
First district at Pines Hall.
JOHN E. CORWIN,
ALEX. T. MORAN,
JOHN H. FEAKE,
ROBERT J. HOCK,
Commissioners of Elections,
Orange County.

IN PURSUANCE of an order of the Surrogate of the County of Orange, NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, according to law, to all persons having claims against the estate of Benjamin Ryall, late of the City of Port Jervis, in said county, deceased, that they are required to present the same, with the proper vouchers therefor, to the subscriber, the Administratrix of all and singular the goods, chattels and credits of said deceased, at her place of residence, No. 12 Elizabeth Street, in the City of Port Jervis, New York, on or before the 15th day of August next.

Dated, January 26, 1912.
MARY J. RYALL,
Administratrix.
C. E. & S. M. CUDDERBACK,
Attorneys for Adm.
Nos. 12 and 114 Pike St., Port Jervis, N. Y.

Peck, the Plumber, 43 Front Street

you should have your plumbing repaired it that sickness and death have often resulted from the pipes being out of order. Perfect sanitary arrangements are essential to health. Have your work done by responsible plumbers, for "poor quality work is not cheap at any price." Our rates and our work defy adverse criticism.

Peck, the Plumber, 43 Front Street

Peck, the Plumber, 43 Front Street

Peck, the Plumber, 43 Front Street

Peck, the Plumber, 43 Front Street

Peck, the Plumber, 43 Front Street

Peck, the Plumber, 43 Front Street

Peck, the Plumber, 43 Front Street

Peck, the Plumber, 43 Front Street

New Goods Received Daily. Something New All The Time.

STEVENS, WHITNEY & DENTON

DRY GOODS.

All Mail and Telephone Orders Filled Same Day as Received

Spring Suits!

Our racks are rapidly filling with the newest creations in Spring Suits direct from some of the largest and best manufacturers in the business. It may seem a little early to some of you to talk Spring Suits, however, our experience is that first selections are always best