CHIEF STONE IS ELOQUENT AT CLOSE

Defends Labor in General and is Applauded After a Stirring Speech.

MONTHS BEFORE DECISION

Awards of the Arbitration Board Hearing Engineers' Cause Will be Effective as of May 1, 1912, However, with Exceptions.

Grand Chief Warren S. Stone of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers spoke so eloquently and to such good effect at the closing session of the board of arbitration at the Oriental Hotel, Manhattan Beach, Saturday, that he was applauded by many women and men among the audience, some of whom ascended the platform and insisted upon shaking his hand. Many of these persons congratulated Chief Stone upon his masterly arraignment of the Eastern railroads and predicted the success of his cause.

Saturday was the summing up day before the representative of the fifty-two Eastern railroads and Chief Stone, for the engineers. W. M. Duncan presented the case of the railroads, after which Chief Stone brought the session to a close. The board of arbitration has been in session for the last two weeks.

Both sides have been requested to file briefs within two weeks, in addition to the arguments already presented. After this has been done the statistical experts of the board will elucidate and condense the exhibits the railroads and engineers have handed in. This will probably require weeks, if not months, of time, before a decision can be reached. The board agreed Saturday night, however, that its awards would be effective as of May 1, 1912, with such exceptions as may be deemed proper.

Besides the usual number of railroad men at Saturday's meeting, the rooms were crowded by many women and men guests of the hotel. The word had gone forth that a fiery session might be looked for, and those who attended were not disappointed. It was the opinion of many of those who listened to Chief Stone's argument that he had made the most able presentation of the cause of labor that has ever been heard in this country. Mr. Stone did not confine himself to the cause of his organization alone, but made a defence of all labor organizations. He said that when those of the other side made statements derogatory to organized labor in general, and to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers in particular, he would prove recreant to his sworn duty did he fail to challenge them. He seemed especially nettled at statements that the brotherhood's first need was to weed out the inefficient and drunkards from the ranks. "Drink has no place in our modern railroad," he said, "and this organization will go further than any railroad in trying to crush it out."

Chief Stone traced the labor movement back to its inception. Using the ancient feudal system as a basis for his arguments, he said the system had always applied to the railroad magnate, "a king in his own right and who ruled with an iron hand."

The speaker stated that the railroad employes were discharged on the slightest whim, without a hearing and without an opportunity to defend themselves, and when a new official came to a road he brought his favorites along with him. "These favorites always get the best runs, he said.

"The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers," declared Chief Stone, "blazed the way for the other organizations, and through sunshine and gray days and battle we have succeeded and taught the other side a wholesome respect for us."

Highland Mills, July 27.—The wages of trackmen all over the New York Division of the Erie will be increased from $1.50 to $1.60 a day beginning next month. The rise has been unsolicited, although it will be very welcome to the men, and it is believed the company has been induced to grant it by the scarcity of this class of labor.
