THE DOMINIE TIPPLED.

PROGRESS OF THE MURDER TRIAL OF W. S. PETTIT.

He Had a Fondness for Mrs. Whitehead and Egg-Nog—Reasons why He Thought a Speedy Marriage Desirable—Damaging Admissions.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind., Oct. 23.—(Special)—Mrs. Francis' cross examination was continued at length yesterday and an attempt made to show that she was testifying different than she had on the babeas corpus proceedings but without result. She described the deathbed scene at length.

Mrs. Sophie Wilson corroborated the story of Mrs. Francis concerning the administering of wheat Pettit said was oil, a short time before his wife's death.

Mrs. Hattie M. Boulin was called for the purpose of showing the relationship that existed between Pettit and Mrs. Whitehead. She had often seen them together.

Mrs. Lettie Hawthorn was recalled and testified to seeing Pettit making egg nog during his wife's sickness. Witness said what was a nice example to set for his congregation." Witness then related incidents in regard to a trip to Attica which she and Mrs. Whitehead made during Mrs. Pettit's visit to South Bend. It was shown that shortly after their arrival in Attica, Pettit arrived, and spent the day in Mrs. Whitehead's company, although he had previously declared his intention to go that day to LaFayette. Pettit declared to the witness that his wife was having a good time during her visit, that he had written to her to stay as long as she wanted to. Witness then related particulars of the conversation at George Hawthorn's house, during which the prisoner stated that the cause of his precipitate arrangements to marry Mrs. Whitehead was to get a home for Dice; that he had found that Mrs. Pettit's death that Mrs. Whitehead loved Him. [Defense objected to the witness stating anything with regard to a conversation with Ollie Reese, on the ground that it was irrelevant; objection overruled.] Mrs. Hawthorn then related a statement made by Ollie Reese that the witness repeated to Pettit to effect that he had attempted to kiss Mrs. Whitehead on one occasion. Pettit denied that he had done anything more than lay his hand on Mrs. Whitehead's shoulder. [Defense moved to strike out the narration, on the ground that it was irrelevant, incompetent and forms no part of the res gesta. Overruled.] Witness was then asked to state the conversation in the presence of Pettit at a meeting previous to the conference. [Defense again objected, on the same grounds, and overruled.] Witness said that a leave of absence was spoken about in that conversation, but was not able to give it. Witness then gave the particulars with regard to the quinine powder which the patient did not wish to take, and wiped off carefully before taking.

Mrs. Alice Carter testified to seeing Mrs. Whitehead and Pettit at a band festival in Oxell while the latter's wife was away on a visit. She called at the parsonage during Mrs. Pettit's illness and offered her services. Pettit informed her that he had turned everything over to Mrs. Whitehead. Witness related a conversation had with Pettit at her house after the burial of Mrs. Pettit. She showed him a letter she had received from Mrs. Shields: He read it. He said: "Isn't this terrible?" and witness said it was. He then explained to her about the cup of tea; said that his wife was sick, and he made some tea in a tin cup, and poured two cups, one for his wife, and one for himself; he gave one to his wife, and sat him down. Mrs. Pettit drank hers, and afterward exclaimed, "Why, Fred! this tea is bitter, what did you make it in?" He replied he had made it in the cup. She answered that she "did not know whether she had washed that cup." The witness then told Pettit she would write to Mrs. Shields, and he might call to read the letter. He said he had hoped that Mrs. Shields would hear nothing of this, if she replied to him that we hoped it might yet be cleared up; Pettit replied that Mrs. Shields was a woman that would go to the bottom of the matter; that his past character was too bad for him to clear him-self in this matter. The witness then stated that Pettit called the next evening and read her letter, and thanked her for writing it. He then asked witness if she would grant him storage room for some furniture, stating that he intended to remain at that house and provided whom for his daughter after the school was closed up. He afterward called and made arrangements to leave some of his goods, and then stated that he had withdrawn from the conference and the church. She asked him why? He replied that an investigation had been commenced and he withdrew on account of it. He also said that the investigation would bring up matters that would not be proper for women to hear. He afterwards brought the goods over, and their talked about the rumors of the filtration of the Grand Jury to investigate. He said that the matter would not come before the Grand Jury, for he would be in Oklahoma before the Grand Jury had a chance to indict him.

Mrs. Bradly was recalled and said that on Wednesday she thought Pettit was under the influence of liquor. [Mrs. Pettit died on that day.]

Mrs. Augustus Yater testified that Mrs. Whitehead stopped at Pettit's nights during his wife's sickness. The defense will now, they say, claim that the deceased died from the effects of chloroform.

MAPPING A LAKE BOTTOM.

Syracuse Making Preparations to Use the Water of Skaneateles.

SYRACUSE Oct. 25.—Engineering corps at work in Skaneateles are making the preliminary surveys for the water supply to be introduced into this city. Assistant James G. Tracy is directing operations in the lake. The steam yacht Bonnie Boy has been chartered for the purpose. Mr. Tracy is aboard of her, with a man to keep the course, an engineer and a man to throw the lead. The yacht makes transections of the lake from shore to shore. These were begun about one mile south of the beach range at the village, and recorded in a series of parallel paths about 100 feet apart, as the soundings are made to enable the villages to determine. On the Western shore a transitman is stationed with an instrument directed toward the yacht, which is also the object at which also is another transitman, who has his instruments set at the village end of the lake. Here they can preserve the angle at any point. The lead is cast at intervals of a minute or two as the yachts seems slowly across, every splash making a sounding being signalled to the transitman by a blast of the whistle. The records of both instruments are carefully noted in rotation, as well as by service time, in order to rectify possible discrepancies. About 600 soundings have already been recorded, not only the depth of the water being kept, but the material of the soil at the bottom as well. This is done by coming the lead with soap, as it does at the bottom. The deepest water so far found is 93 feet. The soundings yesterday ran from 18 to 34 feet in the deepest places. When this submarine survey is completed the bottom of the lake, over the area traversed, can be accurately mapped.

THROWN OUT OF WORK

THE BROOKLYN SUGAR REFINERIES TO SHUT DOWN.

Two Thousand Men Affected—The Companies Will Not Go On Until Raw Sugar is Admitted Free—Rise In the Price of Ale.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—The Brooklyn sugar refinery has closed down and 2000 men are thrown out of employment. It is rumored that with the single exception of Havemeyer's refinery all the Brooklyn refineries will be closed down. About 2,000 men will be affected. A director of the Brooklyn Sugar Refining company says his works will remain closed until April 1st, when raw sugar will be admitted free. A mass meeting of the workingmen is to be held at which the men are expected to pledge themselves to work against the Republican administration which enforced the tariff bill, which is the direct cause of shut down.

Advance in the Price of Ale.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Representatives of all the big ale breweries in New York and vicinity met at No. 2 Irving place yesterday afternoon and raised the price of every grade of ale $1 a barrel. The new prices will go into effect on November 1st. All the brewers agreed to sell no ale for less than $11 a hogshead net, an advance of $1 on the cheapest ale made. The brewers say they are driven to make the advance by the McKinley bill, which raises the duty on Canadian malt from 20 cents to 45 cents a bushel, the duty on Canadian barley from 10 cents to 30 cents, and the duty on foreign hops from 8 cents to 15 cents a pound. American barley and hops are used in making the cheaper grades of ale. The finer qualities of ale which are exported from New York are service to foreign countries are made from Canadian barley and from hops imported from Bohemia and Bavaria. The retail dealers will not be able to advance the price of ale per glass, but they may get even by using smaller glasses.

ROSENDOUT, Oct. 23.—The semi annual meeting of the principals of the State normal schools began at New Paltz on Wednesday and closed yesterday. Dr. A. A. Sheldon of Oswego presided and Professor F. B. Palmer of Fredonia, was secretary.

It was decided that there shall be an equal course than the advanced English graduation, and also not to hold examinations for admissions at the schools, except the term, later than the second week of each term. Persons wishing to enter later in the term must come provided with a proper certificate of school study. It was also decided that instead of requiring a second grade examination, the certificate for entrance a third grade certificate with standing of 75 per cent. in each of the subjects—arithmetic, grammar and geography—will be accepted.

It will thus be seen that a decided advance will be made in the requirements of the schools after those have graduated who have entered upon a two years' course. Hon. A. S. Draper, superintendent of public instruction was present on Thursday. The next meeting will take place in the Spring at Oneonta.

An Incendiary Fire.

EAST FEPPERELL, Mass., Oct. 25—Just the visitation of flame which discovered a large portion of this town yesterday was the work of an incendiary is pretty well established. The wires which connected the burned factory with the three alarm gongs were cut and the signal of the conflagration could be given until the fire had gained great headway.

The hose used by the department of the Nashua mills was clogged up by stones and the keyholes in the doors of the factories of the North end engine room. They were plugged up, making it necessary to force the windows to get the apparatus out. No one is underneath the suspicion for the crime, if such it was.

RESULT OF A QUARREL.

A Bank Clerk Stabs Himself to Death in the Presence of his Family.

BROOKLYN, Oct. 26.—Charles Sterling, a clerk in the Bedford bank, committed suicide last night by stabbing himself eight times with a carving knife. The act was committed during a quarrel with his wife and was witnessed by the latter and their three daughters, aged 13, 9 and 7 years. The quarrel broke out while the family were in the dining room. The wife accusing the husband of paying attention to a girl in the neighborhood. In the midst of the dispute the husband ran to a closet and seized a carving knife with a sharp eight inch blade and raising it in the air over his head threatened to kill himself.

His wife, who is a delicate woman, grasped his hand, and after a hard struggle succeeded in getting possession of the knife and, going into the kitchen, threw it into the coal scuttle. In a few moments her husband rushed into the kitchen and returned to the room armed with the knife. Throwing his vest wide open, he plunged the knife into his stomach, his breast and both sides, each time almost to the hilt, while his wife and children were screaming in terror. After he had stabbed himself no less than eight times he fell to the floor, with the blood pouring in streams from the wounds. His wife ran from the house and in a few moments returned with a doctor. Her husband was unconscious when the doctor arrived. He died within ten minutes. Sterling was 31 years old.

MOUNDSVILLE, W. V. Oct. 25.—The special train of two private cars, conveying Governor Hill of New York and party on their campaign trip on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad through West Virginia, was in collision here this morning with the West bound Chicago express.

The Governor's special train had come to a stop near a tunnel and while waiting ahead for a siding, to which it was ordered the Chicago train came into sight. The engineer of the special, warned by a blast, backed his train. At the same time the Chicago express slowed up, but not in time to prevent the collision. THE R. W. & O. ALL RIGHT.

They Will Stand for Their Rights Against the Trunk Lines.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—The fight between the Trunk line association and the R. W. & O. R. R about the right of the latter to run cheap excursions from Canadian points to New York will continues. The Ogdensburg people yesterday made a statement of their reasons for considering the reduced rates. They claim that when they went out of the excursion business it was with the distinct pledge that the other roads should abandon it. A short time after this the West Shore advertised an excursion from Toronto, cutting the rate $3. This fall the Erie did the same thing. Both roads claimed that the low rates was due to a printer's error. Protests against these were unavailing. The Watertown road declares substantially that it is not going to be cut down upon by Trunk lines, but that it will insist on a percentage of its business.

NORMAN WOLCOTT'S DEATH.

The Police Believe They Have the Right Man—Married His First Love.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—The police are satisfied that they young man, Leon Butler, arrested yesterday, knows more about the murder of old Norman Wolcott of Trenton Falls, N. Y., than he cares to tell. Two women have been found who say they saw Butler watching the gentleman toward where his body was afterwards found by the switch engine. A description from Menasha, Wis., says: Norman Wolcott, the man supposed to have been murdered in Chicago, was for thirty years a well known and highly respected man here. He came to Menasha with his wife in 1864.

In 1866 he founded himself with church work, founding and building the First Congregational church in the city in 1866. His profession was that of a veterinary surgeon, and he was tolerable well-to do, and several years ago he and his wife celebrated their golden wedding and were congratulations of many relatives presents from their hosts of friends here. A year later his wife died and he married a younger man and went to live with relatives at Trenton Falls, N. Y.

A rather romantic story of the old man comes here through correspondence. Many years since old when he ventured to New York, Mr. Wolcott met and married a splendid woman. He went to friends here then he had met and married his first love. One year after his second wife died, leaving him large possession of considerable property. Recently his sister, Mrs Henry Schuyler of this city, invited him to return and make his home at Menasha and he was on his way there when murdered in Chicago. It is thought here that he had considerable money in his possession.
