WOULD NAME RAILROAD MAN

Chanler Talks About Public Service Commission

IN THE MOHAWK VALLEY

Costs People $1,000 a Day and Does Not Come Up to Expectations—Members Without Experience—Don't Believe in Placing Untried Men in Office.

UTICA, Oct. 9.—The speech delivered by Lieutenant-Governor Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler, the Democratic candidate for Governor, at Ilion and Frankfort has made thousands of votes for him in the Mohawk valley. He said in part:

"Whether it be my honor to be Governor of the State next January, I have the honor of being the Governor now during the absence of Governor Hughes in the West, and I do not find the duties difficult, but pleasant. I can discuss the issues with vigor, if not intelligence. It is not an easy thing to make so many speeches in a day. The honor that has been done in nominating me, great as it is, is still greater as coming from a convention the most harmonious held in years. This was a harmony produced by a deep-seated and earnest desire of the delegates that this year we should be fully united, and by carrying New York, secure the election of William Jennings Bryan. (Applause.) The defeats which have come to us have been because we have not been united. I am proud to be the standard-bearer of a united Democracy. I can draw inspiration from a united and harmonious party. If chosen Governor, I should consult with distinguished Democrats from all over the State; for I would also realize that the responsibility would be one me and on my shoulders alone. I would not divide it save as I divided it with the people to whom I would owe my election. (Applause.)

"What a splendid position is that of Governor of this State, yet he is but the servant of the people. He would represent the whole State and recognize no class, but to recognize only ability and knowledge. If a man should be appointed to serve in connection with railways, I would choose one who had worked on railroads and knew practically all about them. We should make the best use of existing conditions. Most of the criticism against the Public Service Commission is because it is undemocratic, as not being amenable to the people directly.

"It costs $1,000 a day. Does it come up to the standard set by Governor Hughes of giving a dollar for dollar for this experience? Did the majority of these men have the practical experience to qualify them for the position? For two years I have been Lieutenant-Governor, and to promote a man to be Governor is natural; but the will of the people is to fill the office by election, rather than by appointment, as that is the Democratic idea of government by the people. Governor Hughes says we may turn all these offices over to untried men. This is erroneous.

"Taking the Public Service Commission as it now exists, it might be used by the corporations, as it is the creature of the present Governor, and I say it in no invidious way. The Democratic party is opposed to government by commission. It believes in government by the people, and responsibility to the people and not alone to the Governor. (Applause.)

"I am glad that my lines should be cast in pleasant and quiet places like this. We come nearer to the plain common sense of the people.

"If elected, I will be Governor and I will be no man's man. I will have but one master and that master will be the people of the State of New York." (Applause.)

THE DIAMOND MATCH COMPANY.

During Last Six Months Sales Exceed Those Last Year—President Barber's Letter on Earnings.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—A Chicago stockholder in the Diamond Match Company has received the following from President Barber:

"During the last six months sales exceeded last year. I have no doubt whatever that we made an increased profit, which is not large, however. During the last three months of 1907 trade fell off very materially, but it was recouped in the first three months of this year, then it lapsed again into a quiet condition."

"We had about completed our new plant at Oshkosh at the beginning of the year and the readjustment of machinery from the old to the new plant and installment of new machinery has been charged to expense of manufacturing, which would account for a very considerable expenditure not properly chargeable to manufacturing expense. These adjustments at the end of the year, were put into the proper account.

"We have had one of the worst years of manufacturing matches on account of the great heat and humidity during the Spring months for ten years. In the first three months merchants became very conservative. We believe that today there is a smaller stock of our goods on the market than for some years. It has not been our habit to make semi-annual statements and it cannot be done at great expense. We aim to run our business on as economical a scale as possible, and to thoroughly satisfy our stockholders at the end of the year, as I have no doubt we will be able to do on closing our books December 31st.

"We have under process of construction at Barberton a plant which, when all machinery is installed, will increase the output of that factory sixty per cent. or more, which will be $450,000 and probably more.

"Regarding the comparative selling price of stock of the Diamond Match with stocks paying the same dividend, Diamond Match stock is in no way a speculative stock. There is no attention paid to the selling price of the stock as far as the management is concerned. The stock is now very thoroughly distributed, the company having about 3,300 stockholders, five per cent. of whom are women. The stock is only brought out when some holder thinks he can find a better investment.

"The plants of the company are in magnificent physical condition and the operations of the company are conducted on economic and scientific lines. I believe the company is in better shape today than it has ever been, and that it will continue to grow and prosper in the future as in the past. I hold more stock today than for years."

NEW YORK HAS A MYSTERY

Couple Found Together Found in Jamaica Bay.

PERSONS OF WEALTH

Both Expensively Dressed and Evidently of Leisure Class—Woman Had Wedding Ring on Finger—In Water But a Few Hours—Marks Removed From Clothing.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Bound face to face with rope and wire, the bodies of a man and a woman, both expensively clad, were found today floating on the waters of Jamaica bay and the Brooklyn police are investigating what promises to be one of the deepest mysteries in years.

Murder or suicide? that is the question. Did an enemy wind the rope about the couple which held them close while the strangling waters choked out life, or did they, seeking oblivion, deliberately choose an end together rather than a life apart?

That the suicide theory is possible is indicated by the fact that to the woman's wrist was wired a handsome alligator bag containing mutilated letters and a lone $10 bill.

All marks of identity had been effaced from the clothing of the two victims.

The floating bodies were discovered when fishermen in a launch ran them down about two miles from Crescent street, East New York, and a message was sent to the police as soon as the launch struck shore with its tow.

Coroner Nutt, of Queens county, declares the bodies had not been in the water more than three or four hours, but what they jumped or were thrown in it was impossible to say owing to the rapidly shifting tides of the harbor.

The woman was a blonde about thirty. On her finger was a wedding ring. She had never known privation nor had the man who met death with her. His hands were soft and well cared for and in his pocket was a handsome gold watch and chain. On these trinkets the police rely to solve the mystery than which none more puzzling has engrossed their attention in years.

CHOLERA IN PHILIPPINES

Number of Dead Since January 1st Will Reach 12,000.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Cholera has claimed approximately 12,000 victims in the Philippines since January 1st of this year, according to a detailed report made by the Public Health Service, by Chief Quarantine Officer McClintic, at Manila. Up to August 15th, there had been 12,816 cases and 7,830 deaths, and since then the average number of deaths per week has been more than 500.

The figures cover all the provinces, in many of which the conditions are much worse than in Manila. In the week ended August 15th there were 1,005 cases, and 708 deaths in the archipelago. Of the deaths, only fourteen occurred in Eleat province, in which Manila is located. Iloilo province reported 296 deaths; Union 159 and Ilcos 162.

THE WAYS OF WALL STREET

Stock Exchange Denounced as Gambling Den

PUBLIC THE LAMBS

E. F. Buchanan, of A. O. Brown & Company, Tells the Secret—Says Change Is A Gigantic Vampire Sucking Out the Life Blood of Country's Toilers.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Denouncing the New York Stock Exchange as a gigantic vampire which sucks out the life blood of the country's toilers, declaring it a gambling den pure and simple and advocating the abolition of speculative trading in stocks and of the ticker, E. F. Buchanan, organizer and manager of the defunct stock brokerage house of A. C. Brown & Company, today gave out an interview unparalleled in the annals of the street.

Before its failure to swing the great financial coup, which precipitated its ruin, when men and banks it had relied upon failed to support it, the house of A. C. Brown & Company did the largest commission brokerage business in the country.

"Edward F. Buchanan was the man who put it at the top of the heap. He says that the "wash sales" campaign which drove his firm from the Stock Exchange is being duplicated every day by firms and brokers of good standing.

"It's not sour grapes which prompts my declaration," said Buchanan. "I am glad now that the firm's failure will put me into a legitimate business, where it is not failure to be honest and disaster to be human.

Tells the Secrets.

"The fight against the gambling features of the New York Stock Exchange deserves the support of every honest citizen in the country. Now that my connection with the New York Stock Exchange has ended and my lips are no longer bound by the seal of a partnership, I am quite willing to present some considerations on Wall street which may assist in the effort to make a legitimate Stock Exchange out of the present gambling hole.

"Without the New York Stock Exchange it would be impossible for this country to have a panic. It is the medium through which slants are spread from Maine to California, over the leased wires of the commission brokerage houses. No man buying and selling stocks on margins is producing anything.

"He is a gambler, pure and simple—an idler. As for the Stock Exchange commission brokers, they are merely lamb-herders working for the owners of the stocks they sell.

Dealing Out Information.

"The big men deal out the information about the properties they own or control to suit themselves, and this information is all which the lamb herders, or so-called commission brokers, send out to the lambs—I mean their customers.

"Now these big men, the so-called insiders, the real owners of the New York Stock Exchange, they never have any real cause for worry, just so long as the general public are industrious, for the simple reason that they own the banks in which the industrious masses deposit their earnings.

"The officials of the banks are the subordinates of the owners of the banks. Consequently the owners of the banks being the owners of the stocks of the great industrials and railroad corporations, may borrow the people's money so deposited in the banks to carry and make up the prices of their stocks until such time as they are ready to sell the stocks to the depositors in their own banks.

"Then through the information dealt out through their various brokers, their salaried United States Senators and Congressmen, they have induced the gullible masses to invest their savings in these very securities which are being floated by the people's own money without the knowledge of the individual depositors in the banks.

Shearing the Lambs.

"See the wheel as it turns. The lambs have given their money for these stocks, they have bought no stocks with their money and the stocks have been passed out of the hands of the big owners of the resources of the country into the hands of the general public, and these great leaders have the money in their own name instead of merely the loan of it for a time.

"We have a splendid bull market and the big melon is ready for distribution. All aboard for the down trip of the insiders. Here it comes, on one pretext or another, a most disastrous break in the market, engineered upon the floor of the New York Stock Exchange by the commission brokers or lamb herders, now engaged in shearing. Prices tumble and, under the rules of the Stock Exchange the public is forced to sacrifice its holdings at ruinous losses.

Saviors of the Country.

"Into the breach now step the financial leaders of so-called big men. They wear halos and pose pretentiously as the saviors of the country. They shrinkingly consent to take back their securities in many cases at prices fifty per cent. lower than the prices at which they sold them to the people they are now pretending to save. This is the melon, and the next one will be cut when the industrious public has earned and piled up some new bank balances.

"Easiest thing in the world, this rigging the market for the down trip. Simply let a few big men circulate a report that Bryan might be elected, discharge a lot of men in picked commercial centers of the country, call loans through their banks, refuse financial aid to mercantile enterprises, and then through their own particular brokers sell certain market leaders by the price of snatching orders. One day recently they juggled 1,500,000 shares in breaking the market, and a nice little cantaloupe was cop up for the insiders.

Needs Moral Training.

"The abolishment of the trading in margins would go a long distance toward righting the wrong. Then everything bought on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange would be paid for.

"It is not to be wondered at that the country West of the Hudson river feels bitter toward Wall street and its great crunching machinery, the New York Stock Exchange. The small merchant, the farmer, and the entire business community of the country, all producers, men who bring something out of the ground, they have come to realize the annual flight from their midst of the procurrency swept into the Wall street maelstrom.

Abolish the Tickers.

"Incidentally the tape is no small agent in the machinations of the New York Stock Exchange. It is the most seductive and fascinating means of carrying a man off his feet. I would say abolish the ticker and half the harm is gone.

"There are many other ramifications in connection with the business of the gentlemen of the New York Stock Exchange, whose very President has a special partner who is a trader on its floor, and whose Vice-President does not disguise the fact that he is a speculator.

"But I have only discussed the fundamentals. A moral boom was served in the closing of Dick Canfield's gambling-house and he silently is betting at the race tracks. These were but flea bites compared to the wanton destruction on the New York Stock Exchange, which, if it is to remain open, should be run on the gamblin-ghouse, basis the innocent as well as the participants in the great legalized crime."

FRENCHMAN WON THE MARATHON.

Beat John J. Hayes Record by Nearly Eighteen Minutes.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—Beating the time made by John J. Hayes, the American, who won the Olympic Marathon, by seventeen minutes and fifty-five seconds, H. Ari Siret, a Frenchman, today won from 128 competitors over the same course as that followed in the Olympic Marathon. Siret's time was 2:37:25, while Hayes ran the distance in 2:55:18, and that of Dorando, who finished ahead of Hayes but was disqualified for receiving aid, 2:54:46.

Three minutes after Siret finished Patrick White, England, entered the stadium, closely followed by J. K. Eywood, England. All were strong and comparatively fresh.

The splendid time made is attributed to the ideal conditions under which the race was won.

LOCKED BOY IN DARK CLOSET

School "Marm" Left Him There Twenty Hours While She Attended Wedding.

PEABODY, Mass., Oct. 10.—The youth and pessimist tears of Katherine Reynolds, a school "marm," softened the hearts of the Peabody School Board, which met last night for the purpose of administering punishment to her for locking a ten-year-old pupil in a dark closet and then forgetting him for twenty hours.

When the boy was discovered on the afternoon of the following day he had cried himself to sleep and being a hasky youngster is apparently none the worse for the experience.

Miss Reynolds said that she had intended to keep him locked up only for a short time, but a wedding at which she was to be bridesmaid had driven him out of her mind.

Meanwhile the boy's parents had the whole town aroused searching for him.
