Polio Emergency Aid Units Established to Fight Disease

The nation right now is experiencing what may prove to be one of the largest polio epidemics in the recorded history of the disease in this country. This was made known today by Mr. John F. Farrell, chairman of the Hamilton County Chapter, of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

"So far this year," Mr. Farrell said, "according to the U. S. Public Health Service the upsurge of polio cases nationally has exceeded the rise during the similar periods ever since infantile paralysis figures have been reported by that agency."

In our county no cases of polio have been reported thus far in 1946.

"The Hamilton County Chapter, Mr. Farrell said, "has this year to date spent $5,500 in providing for hospitalization and medical care and treatment for local polio patients."

"We cannot tell how severely we may be hit," the chairman said, "but the National Foundation and its chapters are prepared as never before. Long-range planning early this spring now is paying invaluable dividends in ability to meet the present emergency."

Four polio emergency aid units have been established in cooperation with Stanford University, Harvard University, Northwestern University and D. T. Watson School of Physiotherapy," Mr. Farrell added.

These units it was explained, are composed of an orthopedic surgeon, pediatrician, orthopedic nurse, an epidemiologist and two physical therapists. Upon request of state and local health authorities the units go into epidemic areas, assist in setting up facilities and help instruct local professional personnel in modern methods of diagnosis and treatment of infantile paralysis.

The Harvard unit was summoned to Florida last May. The Northwestern University unit just recently was sent to Peoria, Illinois, Mr. Farrell said. And he also pointed out that wherever polio strikes heavily the emergency aid groups are ready for immediate duty.

"Chapters of the National Foundation," the chapter chairman stated, "realizing the acute cooperation of nurses, working in close cooperation with the American Red Cross, salaries maintenance and transportation of nurses, recruited through the Red Cross for work in polio, are paid by the Foundation chapters. Each chapter is fulfilling the Foundation's pledge that no infantile paralysis patient need go without the best possible medical care and treatment for lack of funds."

Should any chapter exhaust its treasury in providing for adequate care and treatment of victims in its area, national headquarters sends in supplementary financial aid. Services of the Foundation and its chapters are rendered polio patients regardless of age, race, creed or color.
