

Herman Schwab Dies Sunday-- Served in Newark

REV. HERMAN W. SCHWAB

The Rev. Herman W. Schwab, who began the work of the Free Methodist Church in Newark, died after midnight Sunday (April 7, 1968) in Kirkville, N.Y., according to word received here.

The Rev. Schwab, minister of the Free Methodist Church, was sent to Newark in late 1964 to open new work as part of the church's extension program. He was assigned to Newark by the Susquehanna Conference of the Free Methodist Church.

He came here from Vestal where he served one year after a previous year at the church in East Williamson. He had been a minister for the church for over 40 years and was superintendent for 14 years until eight years ago. He also had held pastorates in Rose and East Williamson.

Mr. Schwab leaves his widow and two children. Services were held Tuesday with burial in Chittenango Cemetery.

Man, 24, Killed When Car Slips Off Jack Friday

Pedro Rojas, 24, of 122 Stuart Ave., was killed last Friday night when his car which he was working on slipped off a jack at the DuPont Mfg. Co., Route 88, just north of Newark.

He was pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. Joseph J. Kaufman, police surgeon, at 7 p.m., according to police. Dr. Kaufman called Dr. David Emis of Lyons county coroner.

Police stated the man was working on his car and when they arrived at the scene he was under the car. They also stated that the car was jacked up by a bumper jack on the right front bumper. There were two blocks of wood under the base of the jack.

The right front tire was off the car, according to police, with the possibility that Rojas was changing the oil filter when the jack apparently slipped. The accident was investigated by village and county police.

Mr. Rojas, who had been employed at the local firm, was born in Puerto Rico, Nov. 24, 1943.

Established and be commonly practiced in our country."

The congregation of the Christian and Missionary Alliance Church observed silence and prayer at the communion table for the nation in the wake of the assassination of Martin Luther King, Jr. and the ensuing riots.

The Rev. William Moon, pastor, prayed for a change in the hearts of both blacks and whites and for peace in this country and in Vietnam.

Excerpts from the Rev. Bernard D. Granger's Palm Sunday sermon at St. Mark's Episcopal Church are as follows:

The theme of the sermon was to draw parallels between our Lord's acts of Holy Week and the life of Dr. King and the parallels we find are that each of the two warned the existing society of turmoil, chaos, and destruction.

Each of the two proposed an alternative to the path toward complete destruction that their present societies were presently following and each proposed a plan which would lead us to definite objectives and goals rather than toward the catastrophe of lawlessness, chaos, and total disintegration of our societies.

"I commend to you thinking, Rochester Jobs, Inc., the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, and the Fight Organization in Rochester which is officially supported by the Diocese of Rochester."

"I suggest that you read all you can about the racial problem as it exists and why it exists."

"We must make a decision—either we allow our cities to be leveled, our economy to be shattered beyond repair and our nation destroyed or we take action now. To turn our back on the problem, to attempt to justify the aloof "hands off" attitude is to have our heads in the sand."

"It would seem that the very people, for whom Christ undertook the long walk to the Cross, for whom He was crucified, dead, and buried, have tried to wash, from their hands, the blood of those for whom Dr. King has now died."

"I suggest that no person in this Church this morning flaunt his hypocrisy and blasphemy by going forth from this Church wearing a palm cross or carrying a palm branch unless he is willing to take up the Cross of Christ in the interest of God's disadvantaged people."

Excerpts from the Palm Sunday sermon of the Rev. Walter R. Hobkirk, pastor of the Park Presbyterian Church, in reference to Martin Luther King, Jr. follow:

In the light of the world shaking events that have overtaken us within the last ten days, we cannot observe Palm Sunday just like any other Palm Sunday. There is curious significance in the cry of Hosannah which was used by the people who acclaimed Jesus. It meant, among other things, "Help, we pray!" or "Help Israel, O God!" Certainly as a people and as Christians we stand in need of divine help in these times.

The honoring of the memory of Martin Luther King, Jr. seems appropriate today both in terms of timing and in terms of the non-violence for which he stood. Jesus engaged in non-violent direct action himself. Martin Luther King's non-violent emphasis is an instance of what Jesus stood for catching on. Jesus non-violence has been reactivated.

Crucifixions for righteousness sake still go on, and God urges them to his ends. The assassin thinking that he was doing a good deed by eliminating the trouble maker may not have realized how God takes the most unlikely situations and uses them for his purposes.

This national social issue has to do with religion in general and with Christianity in particular or else it has no meaning at all.

He went on to say that it is interesting to note how crystallizations of the real issues of life often come out of prison. St. Paul wrote about some of the most important issues from his prison, Dietrich Bonhoeffer in his "Letters from Prison" suggested his philosophy. Although it is not yet well understood, his emphasis in those letters affects your life and mine today. Thus Martin Luther King in meeting the criticism of eight clergymen that he had been "unwise and untimely" in his emphasis on non-violent direct action, has given to us a rebuttal that will go down in history as "Letter from Birmingham Jail." At this point I quoted extensively from that letter which tells why King believed that they could not "wait" any longer to get the equality and justice they deserved as American citizens, and promised this on "formulation of the Constitution and the Declaration of Independence, as well as the Judeo-Christian heritage."

King closed the letter: "Let us all hope that the dark clouds of racial prejudice will soon pass away and the deep fog of misunderstanding will be lifted from the fear drenched communities and in some not too distant tomorrow the radiant stars of love and brotherhood will shine over our great nation with all their scintillating beauty."

The Rev. Hani Khoury, pastor of the Port Gibson Methodist Church, said in his tribute to the assassinated Negro leader that the bullet which struck the Rev. Mr. King differs only in kind from the nails which bled Jesus to his death.

"The intention behind them was the same to destroy God's holy purpose made known by the lives and the messages of love, peace and brotherhood which they proclaimed," said Mr. Khoury.

"It took only one man to drive the nails into the hands and feet of our Lord," added the Rev. Khoury, "but backing his act were the shouts of those crying, 'Crucify him!' It was one person who assassinated Dr. King, but prompting his deed were the voices of prejudice, fear, ignorance. The majority of us, however, stand guilty because of our indifference to the cause for which this great man lived and died."

"As Christians we need to be awakened to the realities of our task. We have to come to the realization that the Negro does not seek charity or favor, but his inherent right of equality, opportunity and freedom. Martin Luther King, Jr. preached this message trusting in God and in man's sense of integrity. Though he is dead, yet what he proclaimed need not die for love, peace, and brotherhood and in God's eternal plan for humanity."

Two State School Employees End 12-Year Service

Two more employees at the Newark State School have retired in the past week.

Bernard B. Bramer of 153 W. Dezeug St., Clyde, retired as an attendant after having been employed for 12 years on East Born 1. Mrs. Josephine K. Hartnagle of 804 Church St. retired from her duties as kitchen helper in the food service department after 12 years of service.

Mrs. Hartnagle was first employed on May 14, 1956 as a dining room attendant but on June 8, 1956 transferred to the position of kitchen helper. She served in the Girls Infirmary, the main kitchen and in the central vegetable unit during her years at the school.
