Mr. Howard had been in this country but about 2 weeks, having left England, his native country, about 4 weeks ago to make this country his home, he left behind his wife, who expected to follow him soon. The Ontario and Livingston counties annual sheep show will doubtless be reported by your sheep reporter on the "Stout's" famous hostlerie fed crowds of hungry wayfarers. Among the pleasant incidents of the day was the presentation of a prod pole, in the shape of a gold headed club, to the Ontario County sheep, John W. Taylor of all-over-the-world and especially Texas. S. F. Short of Hemlock, in behalf of some thirty friends and admirers, made the presentation speech. In his acceptance John W. admitted that heretofore he had held the opinion that the man who sported a gold headed cane was high toned, as it were, but times had changed, etc.

As to being a lover of sheep he acknowledged the soft impression admitting, however, that though he had bought many a good sheep of his customers present he had likewise bought many a poor one. This remark elicited roars of laughter. As he mentioned a name, each man thought it a good joke on his next farm neighbor.

The outlook for wheat in this section is promising; the warm rain last Saturday has greatly improved the wheat and early-sown oats. Planting is nearly done except corn and potatoes.

The surveyors are on the line of railroad west of Geneva marking deficient grade, etc. There is one cut on the west of Stanley, of about 30 rods which has been filled with stones and earth, and the grade being plowed down by a farmer because he had not received the consideration or right of way, perhaps he had the right to do so but it seems to us questionable. A large majority of the inhabitants of the town are in favor of having the depot and early-sown oats. Planting at Gorham village, and we presume they will be suited. It is also thought that a Union depot built by the three roads will be necessary at Stanley.

Collected Business Places. MAPLE AVENUE (CONTINUED). In our last we spoke of a building that stood upon the present site of P. J. Rucker's clothing store occupied at that time, 1847, by H. G. Blood, and which was burned with two others. This fire at the time created considerable excitement, it being thought to be incendiary, and a certain party was arrested but for lack of evidence a note proffered was entered and the party discharged.

This building we are unable to get at its early history and can only say that it could not have been of long standing.

In 1845 Jas. Draper purchased the house that stands back of the Harris block, now occupied by Louis Schrier Jr., of Chas. Dodge by whom it was erected a short time before. A few months after the fire above spoken of Mr. Draper purchased the site and erected thereon a building which is now the front part of the Rucker store.

This Mr. Draper used for a tailor shop and sometimes kept groceries and also a stock of ready-made clothing for sale therein. During one of his terms as post master he kept the office there. About 1872 Mr. Draper sold the building to T. Warner who rented it to Edwin A. Draper, a son of James, who occupied it as a harness shop. Messrs. Shattuck and Sayles having been burnt out in the spring of 1873 moved into this building. It remained there until December, 1873, when the present proprietor Peter J. Rucker, then just starting in business, laid the foundation of his present fine store in the rear of the building which he has since carried on with commendable zeal. Mr. Rucker purchased the building in the spring of 1872 and at the same time added upon the back part and now occupies the entire building in his business.

About 1847 a building which stood upon the Crosby site and which was previously occupied as a tailor shop, was burnt down by fire. It was a two-story building and was used as a blacksmith shop. It was burnt together with one that stood upon the lot next west. There stood at this time a building which was used as a blacksmith shop.

Next east is the residence of B. T. It is a large place, which he purchased this spring. It was a blacksmith shop 35 years ago, in which Frank Lyon has shod many a horse and ox. It was sold a few years ago to Wm. Drake, who made it into a pleasant residence there. S. Lincoln purchased it who by contract with Drake (who was a carpenter) gave it its present shape; the wing and piazza was added, and the building is now a fine residence.

Changes of Forts. Marks' corner is the south of Main and Mechanic streets. It was built in 1847 and occupied by T. A. Mitchell, then A. W. Dutton and is now being occupied by Dunlop & Co. as a furniture store. J. B. Sharbin has a furniture store over and in the rear of the store and which also extends over the post-office. The entrance to his rooms is directly on the corner, and he has built up a good business in that line. No alteration has ever been made to the old Marks store in its general appearance except adding a few feet on the north side, next the walk, carried up the two stories. The Marks housestead was built about 1842, and he went into it when partly finished in the fall of that year and occupied it until he died. It is yet the home of Mrs. Marks and the heart home of the children and grandchildren. Our first remembrance of it was in the summer of 1842 when Edward Marks, Jr., etc., had a two-day meeting within its unfinished walls. It has been kept in the best of repair, but windows to the west and south have been added as well as other ornamental and useful piazzas; it has the same general looks of forty years ago. The lattice work and flower garden east of it, along the front of the walk in part remain, but the rest of the garden has been laid out in the present proprietor Peter J. Rucker, then just starting in business, laid the foundation of his present fine store in the rear of the building which he has since carried on with commendable zeal. Mr. Rucker purchased the building in the spring of 1872 and at the same time added upon the back part and now occupies the entire building in his business.
