HOLDS PLAN WON'T WORK

under 60 years of age to pay taxes enough to provide a substantial pension to those over 60. Except in case of actual disability I think that all old age pensions must be limited to those above 65 years of age and I think that it is absolutely impossible to tax the people of this country enough to pay the same pension to those in the South, where the cost of living is lower, that we pay to those in the North.

These Townsend taxes would either raise prices or drive more people out of business and in that way they would bear most heavily on the poor.

I do not propose to support any measure that is very evidently designed to deceive the people and to get money out of them, rather than to accomplish the purpose that they pretend to stand for.

A little later on, as the opportunity comes, I propose to discuss the entire social security problem and to make such constructive proposals with reference to that problem as are possible.
