BASE LAID IN PROGRAM OF DEFENSE FOR COUNTY

whose effectiveness would be hampered were their identity known Under the enemy committee are appointed various reliable but undivulged persons in the community to cooperate with the Immigration Service of the Post Office Department in keeping a close check on aliens in each township, not only to prevent anyone from communicating confidential information or committing sabotage, but also to protect loyal aliens from persecution due to hysteria in event of hostilities Persons are also designated to investigate subversive activities, suspected groups, school textbooks, and youth organizations, and transmit such information to federal agencies, the Department of Justice, and state, county, and local police

The home committee, which is already partially in operation in all county posts, is gathering information as to private arms, ammunition, transportation facilities, and personnel in each community which can be mustered to aid in home defense This unit conducts a survey and files a register of all persons who own firearms trucks, autos, motorboats or other transportation means, drivers, mechanics, and supplies, and asks them to register for voluntary contribution of these facilities and services to be used in an emergency. This completes the picture of the division of information.

Plan Evacuation Control

The operations committee, second main division, has charge of several sub-committees whose main functions come only after the nation is invaded if it is. The unit appoints a civil committee, which has charge of protecting and aiding the civilian population during an attack, and also of evacuation of civilians from the town or county Working with officers of the armed forces these persons are ones who study roads in the county and during an evacuation would direct refugees over good side roads, leaving the main arteries free for military traffic

Griffin pointed out in this regard, that one main cause of the defeat of France was due to refugees clogging main roads so that the military could not advance or maneuver properly. He said the members of this group are alert to an attack through the St Lawrence River, a highly vulnerable spot would meet refugees from northern counties and re-route them through Wayne by the best advantage delivering them to similar committees as they reached adjoining county line.

Also under the civil committee is a group which would build or repair defense works under competent authority cooperating with relief organizations for civilian refugee feeding, housing, sanitation, medical care and transportation. This group will organize Boy and Girl Scouts and other local units to assist in this work and will foster a cooperative spirit among citizens to expedite relief activities in an orderly manner.

Second main branch of the operations division is a military committee, one of the most important and one which will draw on the military experience of all ex-service men. This branch will work directly with the armed forces and will supply whatever assistance is ordered by military officers during hostilities. Able-bodied civilians in each community, except those of probable draft qualifications will be organized somewhat as a volunteer home reserve military force, capable of furnishing a trained infantry unit to guard public works, factories, transportation facilities, or prisoners of war

They will also be ready for call as military police in the zone of operations if so ordered by military authorities. Griffin said the call of National Guard companies to training camps and probable active service during war leaves communities without an active military reserve force, except for the New York State guard, which is now being mobilized for home training and enlarged. He said the Palmyra post has already planned to join the Rochester division of the state guard and is drilling more than 50 men weekly

Although no other county posts have officially adopted this program, it is believed that most of them will endorse this or some similar program, following a request from Governor Lehman and the Board of Supervisors County-wide action is expected after tonight's meeting and discussion.

Chamberlain and Britain

The man who hated war has passed away
The peace he could not find has come at last
No longer will he hear the cannon's roar
Or watch the men of Britain marching past
Peace in our time never came to him
He saw the Nazi planes fly overhead
He heard the deafening roar of shot and shell.
He passed among the living and the dead.
They say that when he died he had the faith
That his loved land would win and thus be free.
I pray that he was right and that some day
The land he loved will gain the victory.
We pray for you today courageous men
Who fight for everything that we love, too.
The sun will never set upon a land
With men so brave, so loyal and so true.
