WHAT I WANT IS THIS!

I WANT to exchange Western Lands for farms in this county.

I want to exchange property in the village of Binghamton for farms.

I want to sell building lots in the village of Binghamton on five or ten years credit.

I want to sell several farms in different parts of the county.

I want to exchange lands, either in the west, in the village, or in the county, for personal property of any kind.

I want to exchange farms or valuable village property, for a stock of dry goods or groceries.

I want to sell on twelve months credit a pair of fine horses; a span of good work horses; a good single horse; a fine extension top family carriage; four good buggy waggons; two two-horse lumber waggons; three set fine plated double harness; four set single harness; and two set lumber harness.

And what I want more than all is to have my good friends pay me what they owe me, and save me the unpleasant task of dunning them, or what is more unpleasant, of suing them. The books of my dry goods establishment of 1843, and of my drug establishment of 1843-4, as well as the books of my professional practice, are all to be found, at present, at my office, and all who are desirous of settling with me must call soon for my demands will shortly be left with a proper officer for collection. HURRA!

Come, Democrats, obey the call;
Hurra! hurra! hurra!
Gird up for battle, one and all;
Hurra! hurra! hurra!
Come, help us skin these prowling coons,
Despite their claws, and nigger tunes,
And Charley Ogle's GOLDEN SPOONS!
Hurra! hurra! hurra!
Hurra! hurra! hurra!
Hurra! hurra! hurra!
Hurra!——

Our shag-bark pole, they ne'er can climb,
Hurra! hurra! hurra!
Their noses stick beneath the rind,
Hurra! hurra! hurra!
Hard cider times have had their day;
The honest yeomanry all say,
"Oh you can't come it, Harry Clay!"
Hurra! hurra! hurra!
Hurra! &c.

The Raccoon hunt has just begun,
Hurra! hurra! hurra!
Behold the varmint how they run!
Hurra! hurra! hurra!
They'll all get caught, though hard they strive,
For long before 'tis forty-five,
These coons will all be skinned alive,
Hurra! hurra! hurra!
Hurra! &c.

Our gallant hunters, JAMES K. POLK,
Hurra! hurra! hurra!
And DALLAS! Coons, it is no joke,
Hurra! hurra! hurra!
Are in the field; and very soon,
You'll get your gruel, you old Coon!
Your dirge we'll chant, to this "old tune,"
Hurra! hurra! hurra!
Hurra! &c.

We've nailed our colors to the mast,
Hurra! hurra! hurra!
We'll shout for freedom first and last,
Hurra! hurra! hurra!
The coons with all their stolen truck,
Up to their noses, all are stuck,
Deep in the CLAY of old Kentuck,
Hurra! hurra! hurra!
Hurra! &c.

Then dauntless we will face the storm,
Hurra! hurra! hurra!
And all the whig misrule, reform,
Hurra! hurra! hurra!
Proud of our old Democracy,
We'll rally round our Hickory tree,
And flail KENTUCK, with TENNESSEE,
Hurra! hurra! hurra!
Hurra! &c.

THE FORK AND THE POTATO.—Pha-m is one of the most amiable and accommodating creatures in the world; but, then, there is a limit to amiability itself, as a person found the other day, who was one of Phasm's nearest neighbors at the table of a public house in this city.—The individual, for several days had been so constantly in the habit of troubling Phasm, instead of the waiters for "this, that and the other" article on the table, that the latter began to feel "wolfy," and not only "about the head and shoulders," but all over, and was ready for almost any kind of flare up with his foe. An opportunity finally offered:

"I'll trouble you," said Phasm's tormenter, at the same time giving his fork, "to stick my fork into that potatoe."

"No trouble at all, sir," said Phasm, plunging his fork into the potatoe and leaving it sticking there.

"I'll trouble you for my fork now, sir, if you please."

"No trouble at all," replied Phasm, pulling the fork out the potatoe and returning it!—Phasm says that he has not been troubled by the chap since.—Aurora.

KEEP YOUR SONS EMPLOYED.—Let play be but their occasional privilege, and they will enjoy it far more highly. Employ them in the garden, if you have one, as work is not play. Give them daily and regular duties about the house. It will do them no harm to perform humble service. It will help you, and help them still more, to have them bring wood or coal, to scour the knives, to make their own beds, to keep their own room in order. You may thus render them highly useful, and greatly contribute to their own happiness and their future welfare. Louis Philippe, the present King of France, was, in childhood and early youth, required to wait upon himself in the humblest office. It was through this culture that he was trained to be one of the most remarkable men of the age.

LOOK OUT FOR YOURSELVES.—There is a story of the officiating minister at Manchester Collegiate church, England, having to marry thirty couple altogether on Whit-Monday.—Towards the end of the service a female voice cried out imploringly from the midst of the crowd, "Sir, you've married me to the wrong man." The functionary called out, "Sort yourselves," and went on.

GOVERNMENT IRON STEAMER MICHIGAN.—This new steamer, intended for the revenue service on the Lakes, recently made an experimental trip from Erie, at which place she has just been completed, the results of which were highly satisfactory and such as to satisfy the most sanguine expectations entertained of her qualities, showing her to be an excellent sea boat, and making from 12 to 14 knots per hour against a stiff head wind. It is thought that under more favorable circumstances she will make 13 or 20 knots to the hour.

The Michigan is about 164 feet long, 24 feet beam inside the guards. Her hull, berth-deck, wheels, and wheel houses are iron. She has 4 iron kelsons, beside the main kelson, to support the engines. Her draft of water being only 7 feet when ready for sea, renders her capable of entering all the navigable ports on the Lakes.—Albanian.

At all the settlements and plantations on the Mississippi, above Vicksburg, says the Cincinnati Atlas, great sickness and suffering prevail, the effect of the late overflow of water. The Narragansett took on many sick persons on her last trip, of whom four died on the passage.—Many of the settlers lost every thing, and beg their passage up to any point on the Ohio, so that they can escape from the sickness and misery that surround them.

THE ANTI-RENT REBELLION.—Immense tracts of land in Delaware county, divided into farms, are held by the tenants under perpetual leases on the payment of small annual rents.—The attempt to collect these rents has been lately withstood, and an organized system of resistance, a sort of Anti-Rent League, much like that which prevailed in the Helderberg tract three or four years since, has been adopted.

A letter which we have lately seen, states that a very general understanding prevails among the tenants, not to submit to the collection of these rents. A set of regulations has been drawn up, disguises have been procured and are kept ready by the tenants, and whenever a horn is sounded in the region, it is a token that the officers of the law are engaged in the collection of rents, and the conspirators assemble in their disguises to prevent by any means of annoyance, or by force, if necessary, the execution of legal proceedings. No person is allowed to blow a dinner horn on any other occasion and if a housewife should be so indiscreet as to use this method of calling laborers from the field at noon, the anti-leaguers come in a crowd and eat up the dinner prepared for her family.

The association is said to extend over all the lease-hold lands in the counties of Delaware, Schoharie, Greene, Ulster and Sullivan.—Those who are engaged in it, says the letter, pretend that it has yet wider limits, and it embraces all the lease-hold tracts in forty-two counties in the state, and that a fund of seventy thousand dollars has been collected and placed in one of the banks in this state, for such purposes as may become necessary in the prosecution of their plan. Whatever truth there may be in these rumors, there is no doubt that the combination is an extensive and formidable one. Many of the persons engaged in it are opulent farmers; their plans are laid with method, and followed out with determination, and the more peaceful and submissive among the tenants are overawed and carried along by the majority.

WEST SANDLAKE, August 10, 1844.

Gent.—Saturday being the day when the governor was to visit Rensselear county, and hold his pow wow with the committee appointed by the anti-renters, great preparations were made for his reception.

The committee, to the number of eight, had a staging erected, which was to serve as the place where the conference was to take place. Nearly three thousand, as I calculated, were present, having gathered from all quarters of the country during the morning. The Governor and suite arrived about 11 o'clock A. M. and was greeted by the firing of cannon and loud huzzas on the part of the assemblage and the Indians, about 200, who behaved quite peaceably.

At his entrance into the village, he was met by a committee and conducted to the house of Burton A. Thomas, esq, where he stopped some short time, and held converse with the farmers of the country. After a short time, he and the committee made their appearance on the stage, and there was much said on both sides; but the amount of the matter appeared to be, as near as we could learn, that the Governor had come out as a mediator; having been a farmer himself, he could understand their feelings; and it was his opinion that the difficulties might be settled without obliging him to have recourse to the last resort to support the laws of the state. During these proceedings the Indians, of which there was a number collected in the woods, came down on horseback and were present.

After dinner, the Governor, accompanied by Dr. Judson and a number of gentlemen, was introduced to the ladies present, and was preparing to come away, when another arrival of about 100 Indians on horseback interrupted the arrangements. In coming into the village, one of the men who were dressed as Indians fell from his horse and was killed almost instantly by his animal kicking him on the head. His name was Coss. He was taken up and doctors called to his aid immediately, but it was of no use.—Correspondence of the Albanian.

NEW YORK AND ERIE RAIL ROAD.—We understand that the Directors have it in contemplation to resume work on this road during the present season, and that a commencement will soon be made on the line between Middletown and Port Jarvis. This portion of the road will be put under contract, and its construction will cost from 5 to $600,000. The funds are, if we are correctly informed, to be raised from the issue of bonds authorized by the act of the Legislature; which it is known, have a preference to the State claim; and unless the company resume work previous to April next they lose the benefit of this law.—Goshen Democrat.

THE TARIFF HOBBY.—The tariff hobby which the whigs are riding to the death, is working their destruction in Ohio, Indiana, and the other western states. The extreme low prices of wheat, grain, beef, pork, &c., not very convincing arguments in favor of this great whig electioneering hobby, and the farmers there, remember the whig promises that the present tariff should raise the price of their produce. But instead of this it is down, down.—They begin to think that the whigs are at their old "two dollars a day and roast beef" tricks—It is clear that the only safe ground on the subject of the tariff is that taken by Mr. POLK.—Equal protection to all classes.

DUEL.—On Thursday morning last, the 25th ult., a duel was fought in Point Coupee, La., between Messrs. Pierre Porche and Jean Baptiste Berjeon—the weapons, rifles; distance, 100 yards. At the first fire Mr. B. received his adversary's ball through both his thighs, and discharged his rifle as he fell, but without effect. He is dangerously, but is thought not mortally wounded. The quarrel grew out of something which transpired during the late election. We gather these particulars from the Bayou Sara.

JOHN JACOB ASTOR & SIR ROBERT PEEL.—It is stated by a cotemporary journal that John Jacob Astor is worth $29,000,000. The present premier of England is still wealthier; his property, though nothing positive is publicly known of it, is considered in the city, worth £7,000,000 sterling. But there are great hereditary landed estates which much exceed this sum in value.

THE INCARCERATION OF THOS. W. DORR.

Pursuant to Notice, a meeting was held at Wampsville, Madison county, on Saturday evening July 27; to take into consideration the right or justice of the imprisonment of THOMAS W. DORR—Charles D. Ferriere, esq., was appointed Chairman, and S. M. Higgins, Secretary.

The object of the meeting was then stated by the Secretary.

Dr. A. SPOONER being called upon, delivered an able and interesting address, detailing many historical facts connected with the recent political difficulties of Rhode Island and proving by the highest legal authority that Thomas W. Dorr was legally elected Governor of that State.

A number of resolutions were then offered and laid on the table. The meeting then adjourned, to meet at the same place on Friday evening, August 2d.

Friday evening, the meeting was held according to adjournment. It was called to order by the Chairman, and the proceedings of the last meeting read by the Secretary and approved.

The following resolutions were then taken up, and after an able discussion, were adopted:

1st. Resolved, That we believe the present government of Rhode Island a usurpation, and the acting Governor an usurper.

2d Resolved, That we recognize THOMAS W. DORR as the legal Governor of said State, and that his present imprisonment on a charge of treason, calls loudly on every lover of equal rights to raise his voice in indignant rebuke against so gross an infringement of the rights of man in general, and Governor Dorr in particular.

3rd. Resolved, That we will use every exertion to rectify public opinion in regard to the affairs of Rhode Island, and that we most deeply sympathize with Governor Dorr.

4th. Resolved, That we view with indignation and grief the conduct of the Charter party in Rhode Island: That they are tyrannical, oppressive and unjust, and that it is the duty of all citizens to raise their united voices in one loud and long condemnation of the existing pretended laws, and their execution in that state.

On motion of W. H. Kinney, the chairman was directed to appoint a committee of five to call a town meeting: Upon which he appointed W. M. Kinney, esq., Dr. S. Spooner, T. T. Loomis, J. Cooper, A. Hill.

The following resolution was then passed:

Resolved, That the proceeding of this meeting be published in the Evening Journal, Albany Argus, Democratic Freeman, Madison Observer, and the Democratic Reflector.

The meeting then adjourned sine die.

C. J DE FERRIERE, Chairman,
WAMPSVILLE, August 3, 1844.

AN AFFRAY EXTRAORDINARY.—A Colonel cowhided by a Judge.—It is probably known to some of our readers, that Col. Charles J. Jack lately published his views of the recent riots in Southwark, in which he made certain statements of the occurrences at the scene of these outrages which other gentlemen questioned, and which he called upon Judge Conrad to corroborate. The latter gentleman authorized the publisher of this paper to say that his recollection of the occurrences alluded to did not accord with the statement made by the Colonel. Col. Jack published another statement, in which he said he held himself responsible for the truth of his statement "before any tribunal." This Judge Conrad conceiving to be a gross insult with a view to provoke a challenge, and sent a note to Col. Jack by Col. James Goodman. Col. Jack acceded to the proposition, and referred Col. Goodman to Col. Dennis as his friend.

Col. Goodman went in search of Col. Dennis, but could not find him. Col. Goodman then returned to Judge Conrad, informing him of his disappointment, and expressing a belief that Col Jack was deceiving both of them, and did not intend to grant a meeting. Upon this, Judge Conrad went to Col. Jack's residence in Seventh-st., above Market, finding the Colonel at the door, laid hold of him, and as it is said, struck him several times with a cowhide.—There was a struggle of course, during which, Col. Jack was thrown to the ground, but we are informed that no violence was used by Judge Conrad, further, than to inflict an indignity.—[Phil. Leger, 8th.

SMALL FARMS AND SKILLFUL FARMING.—The following brief but comprehensive letter, copied from the New Genesee Farmer, excites a good deal of commendation from the agricultural journals of New England:—

Small Productive Farms.—I raised, the past year, from 30 acres of land 700 bushels of potatoes, 80 bushels of barley, 25 bushels of beets 15 bushels of wheat, 10 bushels of beans, 4 tons of mowed oats, 6 tons of English hay, 10 tons of meadow hay, 40 bushels of corn, 20 bushels of carrots, 75 chickens and turkeys, and a great variety of garden sauce.

I have killed one hog, weighing 390 lbs. made 400 lbs. of butter, kept three cows, a pair of oxen, two heifers, two steers, eight sheep, four hogs. I have been on the place but two years, & have laid six acres of land to grass; the land a clay loam, easy to work. I mix lime with my compost, and plaster my corn, potatoes and grass. I sort my potatoes before sale. Finally, I cook every thing I give my hogs, and feed warm and keep warm.

A. T. ATKINS.

Mr. ATKINS conducts his farming operations upon strict scientific principles. By boiling his potatoes for his swine, the insoluble, and therefore comparatively indigestible starch of that root, is converted into soluble gum. The chemical transformation produced by heat in boiling, steaming, or baking potatoes renders a cooked potato vastly more nutricious for man or brute, than a raw one.

To explain the modus operandi of the great gain of keeping domestic animals warm would lead us too far into the science of Physiology.—The actual gain, however, is not less than from 25 to 35 per cent.
