TOUCH US GENTLY, TIME.

BY BARRY CORNWALL.

[This beautiful prayer must have been breathed by Barry Cornwall's heart while sitting at his quiet fireside, looking into the face of his sweet wife, and rocking the cradle of his "golden tressed Adelaide."]

Touch us gently, Time,
Let us glide down thy stream
Gently—as we sometimes guide
Through a quiet dream!
Humble voyagers are we,
Husband, wife, and children three—
(One is lost—an angel fled
To the azure overhead!)

Touch us gently, time!
We've not proud nor soaring wings;
Our ambition, our content
Lies in simple things.
Humble voyagers, are we,
O'er life's dim unsounded sea,
Seeking only some calm clime;
Touch us gently, gentle time!

☞GOOD ADVICE☜

There is much good sense in the following, which although old, deserves to be often read and remembered:

"If there's anything in the world that will make a man feel badly, except pinching his fingers in the crack of a door, it is unquestionably a quarrel. No man ever thinks more of himself after, than he did before one. It degrades him in the eyes of others, and what is worse, blunts his sensibility to disgrace on the one hand, and increases his power of passionate irritability on the other.

The truth is, the more quietly and peaceably we all get along the better; the better for our neighbors. In most cases, in nine out of ten—the wisest course is, if a man cheats you, to quit dealing with him; if he be abusive, quit his company; if he slanders you, be careful to live so that nobody will believe him. No matter who he is or how he misuses you—the wisest way is to just let him alone: for there is nothing better than this calm, cool, quiet way of dealing with the wrongs we meet with.

Mrs Joe Smith.—The grand design of the Prophet.—A correspondent of the New Bedford Bulletin, after stating the recent murder of Joe Smith has been followed by a dispersion of his followers, gives the following interesting items.—Mrs. Joe Smith, it is said, has lost all confidence, if she ever had any, in the Mormon faith. She will soon retire to some secure situation, undoubtedly the richest lady in the West. Joe had been amassing money for several years, for the purpose of eventually going to Jerusalem intending to issue a proclamation calling in the Jews, over whom he was to be head till the return of Christ upon the earth—which event he represented to his followers would take place 45 years from 1844.

With reference to this expedition he was crowned "King of Israel," in 1844, by the Council of Fifty denominated the "Ancient of Days." The Fifty were all sworn to secrecy. I had the fact from one who assisted at the coronation—divulged since Joe's death. This was the prophet's grand design—and had it been generally known, would, perhaps, have saved our State from the disgrace and infamy of perpetrating so foul a murder. This fact affords a key to certain movements of the prophet which are otherwise inexplicable.

DISSOLUTION OF THE MORMON CHURCH.—Through the politeness of a friend (says the Alton Telegraph) we have received the manifesto of a portion of the Mormons in regard to the successorship of the impostor, Joe Smith, and declaring the church to be dissolved on account of its rejection of Rigdon as its divinely appointed leader. The elements of discord and disunion are successfully at work in the community at Nauvoo; and no doubt rests upon our minds but that the total dissolution of the church will be the inevitable result. Factions may spring up among them, and some unprincipled and ambitious leader seek to seat himself on the throne of power so firmly established by Joe Smith for his own base purposes. But every such attempt will, as heretofore, result in a failure. With the fall of the mock "PROPHET," fell also the throne of despotism he had erected in this Republic, and the charm that enabled him to delude the populace has, with his death, departed, we trust forever.

☞ A planter on Bayou Bœuff, Louisiana, in boring for water, struck a vein at 100 feet depth, which elevated a column within six feet of the surface. The country surrounding is very low, and it is a little astonishing that the water obtained is as pure as the finest mountain spring.

☞ The editor of a country newspaper, sadly in want of cash, thus reasons with his delinquent subscribers:

"We don't want money so desperately bad, but our creditors do. And no doubt they owe you. And if you'll pay us, we'll pay them, and they'll pay you?"

Good logic, certainly, and he deserves to be paid up to the utmost farthing.

SALE OF THE MORRIS CANAL.—This work, offered for sale by Judge Whitehead, Master in Chancery, at Newark under a decree of foreclosure upon a mortgage given for a loan obtained in Holland, was purchased by gentlemen in New Jersey, understood to represent large capitalists elsewhere, for a million of dollars.—about one-fourth of its original cost. It is said to be in contemplation so to enlarge the canal as to admit of the passage of the Pennsylvania canal boats direct to the city.—[Journal of Commerce.

CLAY AGAINST OREGON.—The Hon. R. J. Walker, Senator from Mississippi, thus alludes to an interesting passage in the public life of the great embodiment:

"And do we never want the trade of the home market of Oregon, that portion of which Mr. Clay, by his dispatch, is pledged to surrender to England, being more than double the size of Pennsylvania, with five hundred miles of sea coast, and many excellent harbors. Here slavery does not exist, nor any alledged difficulty of acquisition from any foreign power, for the whole territory is already our own by a title clear and unquestionable, and Mr. Clay's proposition to surrender one half of it to England, is a mere gratuitous sacrifice to British arrogance and unbounded British pretensions."

Tremendous Gale at Buffalo.

[From the Buffalo Commercial Advertiser.]

GREAT LOSS OF PROPERTY AND AWFUL DESTRUCTION OF LIFE.

Last night we experienced a gale more violent and destructive than ever before known.—The weather yesterday was cold and uncomfortable, with occasional drizzling showers of rain. About eight or nine o'clock in the evening it rained quite smartly. Between nine and ten the wind veered to the south and a warm heavy rain fell. At eleven the wind suddenly shifted to the north, and for about half an hour blew with great force, accompanied with rain. It then again with more suddenness changed to the southwest. About midnight the gale commenced and raged like a hurricane up to nearly four o'clock this morning, when its fury somewhat abated, but a heavy gale has continued to blow, up to the hour of going to press.

The damage to property is immense, and the destruction of life is awful. We have endeavored to ascertain the particulars as minutely as possible, but so wide spread is the devastation that several days will probably elapse before the whole extent of the damage can properly be estimated.

The Chautauque is ashore on the beach at Sandytown. The little U. S. steamer Abert is beached at the foot of Mechanic st. The St. Louis, which left port yesterday evening for the west, rode out the gale on the last night, and passed down the river to Black Rock this morning under a jib sail, no steam up.

Since the above was in type we have seen Mr Henry Wells, who was on board the St. Louis. He says that the boat got up within three miles of Dunkirk, when she broke a shaft, and was forced to put back, and by the use of one wheel and the aid of the jib was able to make port. The upper cabin and light frame work, was considerably injured. Three men and a boy, deck passengers, were washed overboard during the height of the gale. Mr. Wells had a large amount of specie in charge, all of which is safe.

The Julia Palmer, which left last evening with a full load of passengers, probably three or four hundred, is riding at anchor in the bay, south of the Light House.

The Bunker Hill is on her side at the water's edge, above foot of Main street, not much damaged. The G. W. Dole high and dry some fifty feet from water. The Columbus in the same position with the Dole, not much damaged.

The steamers Wayne, Constellation and Perry, came in during the early part of the night. The latter in making a berth ran foul of the Great Western, and sustained considerable injury, carrying off the larboard wheelhouse and gunwales. The Indian Queen made port to-day safely.

Brig Queen Charlotte, high and dry, near foot of Michigan st. Schr. Henry Clay, do, near Clark & Skinner's canal.

The brig Ashland broke from her moorings at the light house pier and drifted ashore on the east side of the north pier, and the Preble in coming in ran foul of other vessels and is much injured in rigging, &c. The schr. Platina, Capt Piersons returned at noon to-day, in safety. The brig Europa and schr. Lyon returned in safety to port.

The massive stone pier that protects the harbor is seriously injured for many rods in length. The whole extent of wharfage from the ship canal to the foot of Illinois street, is much damaged, and in many places totally destroyed. Of course, a large amount of property, salt &c., lying on the wharves, is lost.

The flood was heavily felt by the stave dealers. Sherman has 800,000 drifting over the flats. Harbeck has some 50,000 also drifted up towards the Hydraulic works.

The whole of the lower floors of the warehouses on the harbor have been submerged, and the property therein stored of course much injured.

Roop's White Lead Factory, a new establishment in which some $20,000 had been invested is utterly demolished, nothing but a mass of ruins left. The extent of the loss cannot be ascertained until the rubbish is removed. Kingman's three brick stores, foot of Court-street, not quite completed, all in ruins. The brick building partially erected, by the Niagara Falls R. R. Co., for a depot near Court-street, is a mass of ruins. The new Cotton Factory, slightly injured.—Four frame cottages, belonging to C. C. Bristol, near Wilkeson's foundry, all destroyed, as are also the frame cottages and dwellings on both sides of the canal, from Mechanics-st., to the city line, some thirty or forty in number.—Wellman's Cooperage and Van Slyke & Co's Boat yard, in the same vicinity, are all gone, including timber, and tools and steaming apparatus. Graves & Co.'s Rope-walk, a total loss, machinery, materials, &c, all drifted off. W. Mead's new brick dwelling on Court-st, and some thirty small dwellings occupied by persons employed in Wilkeson's Foundry, all washed away or blown over. A hat factory near the canal, two frame buildings on Jackson st, Guthrie & Benson's Plaining establishment, and soap factory adjoining, on the canal, are also gone. On the Ship canal, near Dart's Elevator, are the remains of three or four buildings thrown into a mass of shapeless ruins, to whom belonging we were unable to learn. On the peninsula, between the lake and harbor, several small wooden buildings and a large number of cattle were swept away. Many of the warehouses along the harbor were considerably injured in their roofs, but the massive strength of the bodies of those buildings enabled them to resist the gale. The water rose seven feet in the Glass works of P. Hodge & Co. and destroyed a large amount of stock and ware on hand.

The new brick store, nearly completed, belonging to F. C. Hatch, corner of exchange and Washington, is totally destroyed. The new brick and wooden buildings, each 103 by 58 feet recently erected by the Attica and Buffalo R. R. Co., adjoining the railroad on Chicago st, are utterly destroyed, scarcely a vestige being left. Bush's new morocco factory, a large wooden building just completed, has been lifted from its substantial stone foundation, which is partially destroyed, and is much injured.

A part of the brick dwelling on South Division st. belonging to J. B. Dubois, blew down and crushed the adjoining wood cottage belonging to M. W. Dayton. The escape of Mr. Dayton and family was providential. Alarmed by the severity of the gale, he and his family arose and had just left their beds when the chimneys and part of the wall of the adjoining building, fell and crushed the rooms and beds they had just left. A portion of the brick store corner of South Division and Main, is destroyed. The battlements of the Methodist church are down, and the steeple of the Park church is much injured and ready to fall. McCulloch's brewery at the Hydraulics is unroofed.

The warehouse belonging to O. Lee, occupied by G. A. French, above Washington st, is unroofed, and was filled with water. The extent of damage to contents of warehouse not ascertained. The upper part of the new elevator is carried away, and a frame dwelling adjoining the warehouse is nearly demolished.

Besides these were very many others, particulars respecting which we are unable to give to day. In several instances small dwellings filled with inmates, floated across the flats, their shrieks, vainly imploring assistance, mingling with the wild howl of the tempest. Many of those unhappy creatures perished before help could be given.

The Attica and Buffalo Railroad track from the distance of nearly half a mile from the depot, is completely broken up. The water filled the depot to the depth of about five feet, but subsided without doing any material damage. The company fortunately had a car or two at the Engine house at the Hydraulics, with which they were able to send out the passengers this morning.—The cars will start from the Hydraulics for two or three days, until, the track is repaired. The entire loss sustained by the company in buildings, injury to the road, &c., will amount to three or four thousand dollars.

But the most deplorable effect of the gale is the destruction of life. How many lives have been destroyed it is impossible, as yet, to ascertain. Twenty-five bodies of men, women and children have been recovered and taken to the Court House, for identification by relations and friends. The bodies of children in one wagon have just past our office. Sixteen persons, men, women and children, are missing from Wilkenson's Foundry. Two servant girls employed at Huff's Hotel, slept in the basement. The side walk fell in and filled the room with water before they could escape. Both were drowned.—Their names were Helen Bynam, Irish, and Catharine Redding. The parents of the latter lives in Collins. Thus far the number of dead ascertained is as follows:

Nine men, ten women and thirteen children, thirty-two in all. But a few have as yet been recognized. Among the number is a man named Smith, who lived on Elk st., his wife and two children, a child of William Nelson, living on Ohio st, and James Smith, whose body washed up on Seneca st, and was identified by his wife. Also, two families named Smith, fourteen in all the heads of whom were employed at Wilkenson's furnace, one of them a stove-mounter, from Albany, the other a moulder, from Rochester. Also a young man named Ploof, moulder, from Jefferson county. Mrs. Stalcom and three children, recently from Seneca Falls; a man named Metot, and another named White, who resided at Williamsville.

The man who kept the boat house on the peninsula—we think his name was Gilbert—with his son and a son of the widow Osier, were all drowned. The boat house keeper and son about daylight attempted to swim across the creek, but were swept down by the current.

Great number of families have lost every thing. From the south side of Seneca street, down to the harbor, and sweeping down below the Terrace to the northern bounds of the city, the whole extent is strewed with the wreck of this fearful gale. Houses are submerged and blown down, canal boats are strewed in small fleets a quarter of a mile or more from the harbor and canals, and acres are covered with broken fragments of dwellings, lumber, barrels, wood, staves, &c. Never did any disaster that has afflicted our city appeal more powerfully to the sympathise of the humane and benevolent. There must be hundreds who are destitute of every thing, and no time should be lost in ministering to their distresses.

P. S—3 P. M. The storm is still threatening. The new brig Uncle Sam, Capt. Vail, is just in with a full cargo. Her sails and spars are much torn and broken. In passing the schr. Lyons, she carried away the foremast of that vessel and committed other injuries. The schrs. Marin and Robert Wood, also made the harbor in safety. Others are known to be on this lake and are hourly expected.

LATER.

We have little to add, in addition to what was given Saturday, of the effect of the gale here.—It would be tedious and useless to fill our paper with details of individual losses. Suffice it to say that no former gale was ever so destructive of property and life. We are yet unable to form more than an approximate estimate of the value of property destroyed. The number of buildings of all kinds utterly destroyed, can hardly be less than one hundred. Most of these are of little value, but some of them were large and costly structures. The loss in this species of property, buildings & effects, will not probably fall short of $50,000. The loss of buildings partially overthrown, removed from their foundations, unroofed or damaged in other respects, the number of which is vastly greater than those completely destroyed, will probably amount to as much more. The loss by damage of goods and merchandize in warehouses, the injury sustained by steamboats, vessels and canal boats, and the toss of wood, lumber, staves, building materials, &c. is utterly impossible to estimate, but it must amount to much more than the aggregate loss in buildings destroyed or injured. The total loss of every kind may be safely put down at $250,000.

The height to which the water rose, was altogether unprecedented. Nothing was known like it during the time, a few years ago, when the ordinary level of the lake was several feet above what it now is. This may be accounted for by the fact that for several days previous to the gale a pretty stiff easterly wind had been blowing. This had driven the water up the lake, or, at least, lessened the volume escaping by the river. When the wind shifted to the south west, and blew with such fury, the water came down before it as if a dam had broken away. It rose thirteen feet above the level at which it stood Friday evening

Coroner Harris inform us that he has held inquests on 38 persons. We hope to-morow to be able to give the names of all the drowned and missing. The number will probably exceed fifty.

A little boat or shallop of about 15 tons burthen, left here on Friday evening for Canada, loaded with potatoes, and 13 persons on board. The gale struck the boat near Point Abino, drove it ashore, and every person on board was drowned except the master.

At Cleveland, the gale was strongly felt. The Herald says:

"Considerable damage was done to several vessels in our harbor. The sch'r Panama, loaded with lumber, had her bow and stern so injured that she sunk inside the piers." The vessels in the Cleveland harbor were more or less injured.

Capt. Spencer of the sch'r N. Biddle, reports the loss of his mate, James M. Hall, of Fairport, while coming to Erie, during the gale. The deceased has left a wife. The
