 MISS JEAN WILLIAMS, Manager

Thousands of these giant live oak trees overlook the Atlantic from beach to the Mississippi Gulf Coast. For hundreds of years these ancient and inviolable trees have weathered the severest hurricanes the sea could produce and have come through almost unscathed.

Each month being lost is chartered by Gulf Coast residents and tourists, hotels and other buildings are usually designed to take full advantage of their beautiful shade. In spite of the tremendous building construction that has taken place in this beautiful area, most of these trees have remained unscathed over three centuries.

These lovely trees are very much a part of the character and personality of the Mississippi Gulf Coast. They are a source of pride and pleasure to all who visit the area and are a source of pride and pleasure to all who live there.
