THIS FELLOW IS A GIRL

King's Point, N.Y. — Seaman Second Class Jeanne Morris has become one who is reaching below the all-male United States Merchant Marine Academy.

The title of "boarding fellow" might be a matter of question for Seaman Miss Morris since fresh from finishing a yearling fellow here is a great supervisor," she says.

She is assigned to the Drill Hall and Marines at the Merchant Marine Academy here a training center for officers and Coast Guardsmen. Miss Morris is one of four women teaching fellows at the Academy under a maturity service program but, she is the only woman in the group.

The daughter of Mrs. Julia Morris, Zion Hollister Queens, has a high regard for the Merchant Marine Academy. "The students are well-disciplined and have responsible attitudes," she says. Miss Morris has finished a job close to her department that is handled by Capt. John M. Ericson.

"The education level of the Midshipmen is fine and I can appreciate the kindness of my supervisors in 'Ed 4-7 and Ed 6-6-6. The privileges here are the best I've ever had," she declared after service.

She has completed in biology and had her 24-007 in chemistry at Hunter College in Savannah, Ga. She is presently working on her Master's degree at New York University.

Acting is her hobby and she participates in the YMC Workshop in Queens.

Moreover, the attractive Miss Morris said, "I think I would prefer to stand in front of a classroom rather than on the stage of a theater."

HOSPITAL GIVEN FUND APPROVAL

The Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Western New York has approved the application of The Buffalo General Hospital for a $71.5 million expansion and modernization program. This is the first step in the procedure required for the hospital to go ahead with the construction and renovation plans tentatively scheduled to begin in the spring or summer of 1974.

Eugene P. Wilkowski, acting Executive Director of the WNY Council, said the Council recommended approval of the Buffalo General program "on the basis of need and its sound provision in the cost of the project which will not add to the cost of any other."

He explained that the Council has maintained a high rate of occupancy at its present 659 beds and that the new construction will primarily involve the replacement of outdated facilities, while adding only 31 beds.

The Buffalo General now goes before the State Hospital Review and Planning Council for its consideration. If that agency also recommends approval, the project will be presented another time to decide whether to authorize the project.

EPIS Program Has New Name

The official title of the Experimental Program to Stimulate Study (EPIS) at the State University of New York at Buffalo, has been changed to the Educational Opportunity Program (EOP).

The change was made "to bring the title into conformity with that used generally throughout the state," according to Dr. Samuel Gould, Chancellor, State University of New York. The title change is effective immediately.

August in 1969, in the wake of Martin Luther King's death, the program is designed to give a second chance to disadvantaged high school graduates the opportunity and the assistance to pursue higher education.

Hard of Hearing

Fiedler Helps Them 'Get Through'

Twenty million Americans have some degree of hearing problem and only two or three out of every ten of these millions have sought medical help or rehabilitation. This major health problem is both little known and widely misunderstood.

Arthur Fiedler, world-renowned conductor of the Boston Pops orchestra, is currently helping to change this picture. He is the first person to make when we talk here about "getting through" to the world of normal hearing. When we cannot hear some of those sounds or tones, we cannot fully appreciate many of the important things around us.

The obvious answer, then, is partial hearing a major rehabilitation problem. And this is as much for the hearing as it is for the deaf. The answer is complex, because the problem is complex. Hearing is not just a matter of hearing aid.

Hearing loss may involve a lack of awareness by the deaf person who has a hearing problem. Or it may be a reluctance on the part of the deaf person to admit a hearing is needed.

Too often the majority of persons take the good hearing for granted. Hearing loss is a problem that requires an understanding and sympathetic approach. As a result, the hearing impaired person's life is an uphill struggle or complete aversion to help.

Hearing problems generally involve many aspects of hearing loss. Some of the latest techniques to improve aural hearing however, include the physical adjustment to wearing a hearing aid, and the psychological and social adjustment to one's environment in order to "get through" to others.

Arthur Fiedler's interest in the hearing and rehabilitation of the deaf began when he was a young violinist with the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Recognized conductor Arthur Fiedler is now helping the hearing impaired "get through" to the world of hearing.

Today, after incessantly working with and becoming a leading physical handicap, Fiedler is now, in conjunction with local rehabilitation centers, helping the hearing impaired "get through."

Fiedler suggests that those who have a hearing problem should not "suffer in silence" but "Get Through". The conductor feels that by controlling the level of hearing, is offered free to the public. Fiedler's program also includes a person's ability to hear conversation and sounds in a noisy environment. Also discussed at the meeting will be the recent developments in the "Getting Through" program, sponsored by the Beltone Co., Chicago, Ill. 60645.

WOMEN'S DAY PROGRAM A SUCCESS

Women's Day was recently held at the Lackawanna Church Of God In Christ, Inc., Ham Ave., Rev. Earl Nelson, pastor. The services were well-attended during the day. Missionary M. Simmons of Rochester was the guest speaker for the afternoon service. Mrs. Anna Nelson, wife of the pastor, was mistress of ceremonies.

Since Rev. Nelson has taken over the pastoral duty of the church in 1963, it has been beautified from the interior as well as exterior. Other fine workers are Deacon Ernest Trotter and wife, Sis. Lorraine Trotter; Sisters Mary W-ite, Magdie Jackson, Ella Bonner and Evangelist and Mrs. Dorsey as well as Sister Harriet Smith.

Other officers are Deacons: William Barton, Chm. Deacon Board; Alex Parson, Floyd Owens, Thomas Agee and Clarence Barr.—Offerton Photo.

Keep It Clean

Side brooms are still the biggest problem because dirty sidewalks are the result of improper front end alignment. Stop Officer Kennedy than their problem is the Buffalo Sewer Authority. Side brooms are a boon to city traffic — they sweep the curb lanes — now city cars have been issued the marine sign. (Why not?) Officer Kennedy is quoted: (To kids are more like The Rice Machine by Christ) to my boy scouts, success comes when we don't agree with the way we do things. Let's get to keep this clean. The contest is just starting on weekends. And it is the Buffalo Sewer Authority contest.
