Daily Press Recognition

Earlier in 1973, the powerful daily press, morning and evening papers, published features about Negro history and citizens in the Buffalo area.

Whereas, these papers had hired minority help in their circulation departments as well as some minority reporters many years ago, seemingly at that time they did not feel our people warranted any featured coverage as such and failed to keep proper pace. On the other hand, today, the issue of full citizenship for the minority people is still in force because of the lack of some of the basic fundamental ingredients which include trust, industriousness, unity, desire; love for one another, respect, self-help, understanding and drive. They must be added to the ingredients of toleration and skill, for these latter two necessities will not "do the job" alone.

However, this historical recognition is a giant step in the right direction because the hidden factor to the average human being goes support the advertisers of the dailies equally as well or better proportionately than any ethnic group. The historical features show by contrast the gains and contributions we have made from the time the daily press was not too interested in photos, news or any featured coverage of Negro events.

At the beginning of World War II many black soldiers before reporting for duty told us that they were advised to put the name of the Negro publication on their applications for their home town papers. Added to this, a plank was included in the Civil Rights Relations law that the daily news could no longer legally print the race of persons with the racial name of Negro spelled with a small "n."

This latter issue was exposed mainly by the minority press, and if for no other reason than this, our people should be more aware and income should and ought to support its qualified papers through more subscriptions now greater than they did during the depression and war days.

Today, we too, must put on the responsibility of doing more reading which includes the support of our press as well as the daily publications.

Moreover, in reference to our Queen City population, according to the long and hard work we have done in connection with others in the inner-city, we are of the opinion that the recently published 1970 census of population figure at only 110,000 is rather low and mis-conservative. We estimate it to be closer to the 150,000 mark.

Western Electric Plan Extended Plans Reflect Low Coverage For In Elma, N. Y. Plue Cross

Western Electric, Kearney Ave. and Elma St., has announced that it has taken an option to acquire 240 acres of land in the town of Elma, it was announced by Joseph Lee, vice president of Western Electric.

The company, manufacturer of wire and cable for the Bell System, plans to construct a new plant for the manufacture of the new fiber optics system.

Lee said the plant will employ 1,000 persons when it is completed.

The property is located on Girdle Road in Elma.

It is located near the Aurora Industrial Park, at the intersection of Jamison and Mansfield roads, and is bounded by Aurora Highway on the north, the railroad on the east, the county park on the south and Girdle Road on the west.

Lee said the company will proceed promptly with design and construction of the new plant which will contain approximately 500,000 square feet of floor space. It will be of single story construction with exterior and wall coverings on the latest advances in factory design and new energy conservation technology.

Western Electric manufacturing produces substantially the entire telecommunications products — cable, wire, electronic switching systems, cables — that it now produces for the Bell System.

Telephone which employs about 1,200 persons.

Western Electric said that the new plant will be the second one of New York Telephone's four other Bell System companies for constantly developing new products, makers and fewer people are in the Buffalo area.

The company, founded in 1872 and one of the Bell System's principal suppliers of telephone equipment, has been in continuous operation in Buffalo since 1916.

Western Electric is a wholly owned subsidiary of American Telephone and Telegraph Company, now has 31 manufacturing locations around the United States and had sales during 1971 of $6.2 billion. In addition to New York State, Western Electric employees a total of 2,000 persons in Buffalo, Lackawanna, Lancaster, Depew and Tonawanda.

By ALMA BROOKS

"Of all the eloquence the story tells us, I don't know that I like any better than the one Lincoln used his letter to Horace Greeley.

"Democracy has always been a dream. It is a dream that God is not a respecter of persons, hypocrisy by which discovered it is the active belief of God democracy is a dream. It is the searching for the spiritual in all men. Ending a man by his color is not democracy.

"Every man alone is due the full measure of attention and reward person, hypocrisy by which discovered it is the active approach of our fellow men by governments, by public pronouncements, by efforts to improve the conditions of men than under a hundred half.

"We are living in a critical hour in human history, between a world that's dying and a world that's coming to birth. The character of our nation will depend on the decisions that we make, and those decisions will be determined by what we believe."

Kemp and remedial legislation should quickly regulate the use and economics of all Federal candidates' campaigns, primaries and elections.

Besides relating to recognized expenditures, campaign contributions and audit procedures and the most important new powers are contributions in the aggregate to a candidate's campaign.

He proposed that all campaign expenditures, listed by points, transfer of deposits and withdrawals or repayment, be reported to bonafide committees and that no candidate for a primary prescribed by the Federal Election Commission.

"According to legislation, Kemp said, "should forbid the deposit of campaign funds in personal accounts, the use of an individual or by the banking institution or into the treasury of the United States.

To avoid the Commission's ruling, Kemp said, "should be empowered to compel the candidate to make public any pronouncements, by efforts to improve the conditions of men than under a hundred half.

"It is also in our belief that the Commission should be empowered to fix penalties between a world that's dying and a world that's coming to birth. The character of our nation will depend on the decisions that we make, and those decisions will be determined by what we believe."

Kemp said, "It would be appropriate for the chairmen of the Senate Rules Committee, members of the Senate and House Judiciary Committees to appoint a joint committee to study arresting legislation and to report to the Congress at the earliest practical date.

He said he is "preparing a Concurrent Resolution, which I will introduce for action by the formation of the joint study committee."

Sen. Dymally Speaks On State Tax Loop Holes

Senator Mervyn Dymally (D-Compton) has announced that he will introduce legislation to close tax loop holes which currently allow corporations between $50,000 and $1 million to pay taxes at the same rate, next year—a rate which is scheduled to go into effect the past 3 years.

Dymally said that the proposed legislation would close loop holes which currently allow corporations between $50,000 and $1 million to pay taxes at the same rate between between $25,000 and $50,000. Corporations between $25,000 and $50,000 are presently subject to the same rate as those between $50,000 and $1 million.

"This shows that a lot of corporations are not being subjected to the same rate," said Dymally, who sponsored the 1972 income anti-discrimination legislation. "Many of these corporations are small businesses which are being penalized by the present tax and earnings structure."

"But there's some good news and some bad," he said. "The good news is that the state officials say their problems—of a $400 million deficit in California with an adjusted budget of $1.4 billion—will be solved in full, but to pay some of the problems will be postponed."

"Of course, this would be a one-shot deal," he said. "But this has happened before. In 1967 and 1968 the same problem arose, but in 1970 we paid."

"There's one thing for sure," he said.
