W. G. Miller Dead At 84

Walter G. Miller, 84, of the Ave.-West Leyden Road, died July 14 in Rome City Hospital where he had been for four weeks.

He was born at Ava, May 16, 1889, son of Jacob and Lena Miller Miller and had spent his entire life in the Ave.-West Leyden vicinity. As a young man he purchased the Charles Beyer farm and had lived on the farm until taken ill. For several years he was employed in Rome by Rome Cable Corp. and Rome Manufacturing Co. For the past 12 years he had been employed at the Wendell Still Mill in Ava.

He married Nellie Still, Dec. 19, 1914 in Philadelphia.

Mr. Miller is survived by his widow, Mrs. Nellie Miller, a son, Elwood W., West Leyden; a daughter, Mrs. Kathleen Potter, Seminole, Fla.; a sister, Mrs. Nettie Vauger, West Leyden, and a grandson, Thomas P. Miller, Utica.

The funeral was July 16 at the Miller home with Rev. Donald R. Winckler, officiating. Burial was in Ava Cemetery.

At College Seminar

Norman Moshler, son of Mrs. Irene G. Moshler, Lowville R.D. 3, is among 16 students participating in Eastern Mennonite College's "Ojibwa Seminar" this summer.

Combining a unique camping experience with applied anthropology, the seminar students are "roughing it" in rural Canada among the Ojibwa Indians, reported Roland E. Fisch, seminar coordinator. The seminar began June 21 and will continue until August 21.

A sophomore Bible major at EMC, Mr. Moshler attended Lowville Academy and Central High School.

A four-year Christian liberal arts campus with an enrollment over 900, Eastern Mennonite College is located in the heart of the scenic and historic Shenandoah Valley. Dr. Myron S. Augburger, evangelist and author, is president.
